Rev. Giles succumbs

Rev. Charles R. Giles, 74, died at 7:25 p.m., Tuesday, October 22, at Memorial Hospital, Slidell, La.

Born March 11, 1900, in Slidell, he was pastor of Holmes Chapel United Methodist Church, Pearllington.

Rev. Giles is survived by his wife, Mrs. Arnette Giles; three daughters, Mrs. Shirley Torregano, Mrs. Myrtle Terrel and Miss Faye Giles, all of Pearllington; three sons, Eugene M. Giles, Charles Giles III, New Orleans, and Kenneth Giles, Pearllington; two foster daughters Mrs. Mary Sams and Mrs. Ernestine Peters, Pearllington; two foster sons, Leonard Peters, Los Angeles, Calif., and Stanley Thomas; a sister, Mrs. Valerie Daniels, Oakland, Calif.; 24 grandchildren and 18 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Saturday at Holmes Chapel with the Rev. C. E. Appleberry, District Superintendent Gulfside District, officiating.

Interment was in Pearllington Cemetery with ministers of the Mississippi Conference serving as pallbearers.

Imperial Funeral Home, Bay St. Louis, was in charge of arrangements. Reverend Giles, as he was affectionately known to his parishioners and hundreds of friends, served as pastor for nine years jointly at the Bay St. Louis Valena C. Jones Church and St. Rock's in Waveland, and during his many years in the ministry preached for five years at Haven Chapel in Gulfport, two years in Lucedale as well as in many other churches.

After completing his early education in Slidell, La., he attended Southern University in Baton Rouge, spent four years in theological study at Gulfside in Waveland and took refresher courses each year at the Lake Junaluska Seminary in North Carolina.

Rev. Giles was a member of Lodge 4004 of the Grand Order of Odd Fellows, The League of Churches, The Fellowship of Churches, The Emergency Relief Fund of the United Way of Hancock County and the American Association of Retired Persons.

Stricken with Osteomyelitis at the age of 34 and badly crippled from arthritis, in later years Rev. Giles was a model of patience and endurance. His impressive sermons will long be remembered, as well as his ability to create love, harmony and fellowship among his parishioners and friends.

Reverend and Mrs. Giles made national headlines in 1971 when they traveled to Washington, D. C. along with Mayor Warren Carver and leaders of the community. The occasion was the selection of Mrs. Giles as the nation's top volunteer, honoring her for her work with retarded, handicapped and abandoned children. During the 53 years of their marriage the Giles took more than 40 unwanted children into their home. Rev. Giles was a father to all of these children, and in most cases, he was the only father the children ever knew. Although most of the children spent some part of their growing up years with the Giles, two were legally adopted and two spent their entire lifetime under their care.

A leader in both civic and religious affairs for many years, Rev. Giles was much respected in the communities of Hancock County as a self-effacing and humble person.

Perhaps his greatest tribute came from his wife as she received recognition as the Volunteer of the Year in Washington.

She said, "I could not have possibly done it without him. He was the source of my strength and faith."

Jackson Landing launches first barge

The first giant petroleum barge built in Hancock County, capable of carrying 21,400 barrels of petroleum, was successfully launched Wednesday morning in ceremonies at Port Bienville Industrial Park by Jackson Landing Shipyard, Inc., builders of the 512 ton vessel.

D. "Jeff" Cahill, deputy assistant secretary of economic development, U.S. Department of Commerce, told a crowd of approximately 300 who came to witness the launching that the nation's capitol was a "mountain of paper" but the tangible evidence of the enterprise of those responsible for Wednesday's launching made the job gratifying.

Then in a lighter vein, Cahill added, "But if that thing turns turtle when they let it go, it's strictly the fault of Jackson Landing Shipyard."

The vessel, dubbed the ASTX 1201, was built for Mallard Barge Company, Houston, Texas. The vessel measures 264 feet in length by 50 feet in width and has a moulded depth of 10 feet 10 inches.

Mrs. James Dunn, wife of Mallard Barge Co. president James Dunn, broke the traditional bottle of champagne across the side of the vessel to christen the barge.

The vessel slid into the industrial channel approximately 15 minutes later at 11:45 a.m. after shipyard workers freed mooring lines and blocks which had secured the vessel on land. Spectators cheered loudly as the barge slipped smoothly into the channel creating three to four foot waves.

The launching was preceded by an introduction of dignitaries present and the presentation of a special plaque to Jackson Landing Shipyard president Charles Hill "in appreciation of Hill's past efforts and perseverance in developing the Port Bienville facility." The presentation was made by Hancock County Chamber of Commerce president Mac Haas.

Master of ceremonies for the occasion was past Hancock County board of supervisors president Russell Elliott.

Special guests included Robert Ainsworth, Atlanta field representative for EDA; and state representative Earl Ladner.

Voters go to polls Tuesday

by Dan Barber

A light voter turnout is expected in Tuesday's Democratic primary for six city posts in Waveland.

Three of the positions are unchallenged while the race for mayor of Waveland has drawn only one opponent for incumbent John Longo.

Waveland real estate broker Bea Georgi was the only candidate to file a qualifying petition for the mayor's seat which has been held by Longo since last February when he won a special election to fulfill the unexpired term of the late Garfield Ladner.

All six incumbents in the city government are seeking reelection.

The positions being contested for, in addition to the office of mayor, include four alderman posts and the office of city treasurer.

Tuesday's election marks the first time that voters in Waveland will not vote for a town marshal. That office was abolished by the present Waveland board of aldermen last August with the change to become effective after general elections this Dec. 3.

The largest number of contenders for any one seat are clustered in the third ward alderman's race where four candidates will be attempting to unseat incumbent Dan Campion, a quality assurance supervisor at NASA National Space Technology Laboratories. Campion is finishing his first term.

Opposing Campion are Joe Griffin, Al Champagne, Reverend Julius Williams, and Mel Villere.

In ward four incumbent Ducre Bourgeois will be opposed by Herman Yarbrough, a former alderman.

Incumbents who are running unopposed are first ward alderman Charles Johnson, second ward alderman Al Grass, and city treasurer Willie Bourgeois.

If no candidate gets a majority of votes in the three contested races, a run-off election will be conducted a week later on Nov. 12.

Tuesday's election will mark the second time that Longo has faced opposition for the mayor's seat since announcing his candidacy for the late mayor Ladner's unexpired term last February.

Longo defeated three other hopefuls in that campaign.

Borg Warner may purchase Port site

by Dan Barber

Consummation of a contract with the Borg Warner Corporation for the purchase of a 205 acre site at Port Bienville Industrial park for a proposed multi million dollar chemicals plant is expected before the end of February 1975.

The announcement was made Monday by Wilson Webre, director of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission, before a meeting of the county board of supervisors.

Webre, who requested and received approval to negotiate an extended option agreement with Borg Warner officials, said he had been informed by very high officials in the corporation that the sale would definitely be consummated.

Under the extended option agreement, Borg Warner officials will make a second escrow payment of $12,500 to the Port and Harbor Commission in return for an additional 90 day option to purchase the industrial park property. The option will extend until Feb. 26, 1975.

The 205 acre site Borg Warner officials are interested in, Webre said, includes approximately 126 acres contiguous to the southern area of the park that presently is owned by International Paper Company. Webre said that a previous site selected by Borg Warner had later been close to the center of the park rejected because the elevation of the land was unsuitable.

Webre said Tuesday that secret negotiations with International Paper to purchase the land had been going on for approximately eight to nine weeks.

Monday, Webre asked supervisors for two resolutions. One, authorizing him to negotiate with International Paper for the purchase of approximately 200 acres of land bordering the present Industrial Park boundaries at a price of $400 per acre.

A second resolution authorizes the commission attorneys to gather and prepare legal data and information needed for eminent domain proceedings in the event of unsuccessful negotiations with International.

Borg Warner officials said if the plant is built in Hancock County, a line of plastic called Cylolac would be manufactured. The basic product, a resin chip or pellet, would be sold to other manufacturers for production of a variety of products.

Webre said that the company would construct a plant valued between $50 to $70 million within three years if the future sale was successful. Actual construction would probably commence within six months following consummation of the sale, he added.

"This one blue chip company could set Hancock County 25 years ahead in its industrial park," Webre said.

Webre said that he was told the Port Bienville location was preferred by Borg Warner because of its close proximity to the company's $40 million styrene plastic plant on the Mississippi River above New Orleans and because a Southern plant could open up new markets.

Webre said a plant of similar size in Parkersburg, W. Va., has about 700 employees. The commission, Webre said, had been guaranteed of a minimum employment of 160 persons in any Hancock plant.

Average price of the land, if sold to Borg Warner, is approximately $2,500 per acre based on a total $500,000 purchase price for the 205 acre site. Prices on individual sections of the property vary however from $6,400 for 25 acres of improved waterfront property to $1,000 for approximately 126 acres of unimproved land.

Following conviction

Thomas seeks new trial

Circuit Court Judge J. Ruble Griffin Friday granted defense attorney Max Mercer's request to file a written motion for a new trial for Alfred Thomas Jr. Mercer now has until Nov. 5 to file the motion.

Thomas was convicted Friday in Hancock County circuit court for the murder of a 66 year-old Pearlinton grocer, Forrest Summers.

The trial last week was the second for Thomas. The first trial ended July in a hung jury. An unusual circumstance surrounded the second trial when the state's star witness Isaac Oliver failed to appear. Judge Griffin, however, admitted Oliver's testimony from the first trial into evidence.

Mercer contended that Isaac Oliver had perjured himself and, therefore his testimony should be disregarded. District Attorney Albert Necaise emphasized to the jury that a man who helps another commit a felony is guilty of murder if a death occurs. Necaise said that it was immaterial whether or not Thomas had fired the fatal shot.

Thomas is the second man to be convicted of Summers's murder. The week before, Bernard "Wildman" Curry was convicted by an all-white, male jury. Both Curry and Thomas were sentenced by Judge Griffin to life imprisonment.

INSIDE .....

Long Beach candidates for alderman

Long Beach alderman candidates speak

Four men are vying for the Long Beach alderman seat Sam Maxwell vacated when he became mayor. This Tuesday is general election day and Long Beach citizens will go to the polls to choose one of these candidates.

As a public service to the citizens of Long Beach, the Echo reprints a short summary, written by each candidate, of his experience and reasons for running.

T. D. LEE

I have a fierce pride in Long Beach and its people and am convinced that Long Beach is and will continue to be the most progressive city on the Gulf Coast. I believe what I have to offer as an alderman will contribute to this fact.

My business experience, executive ability, maturity, and that I think for myself will be an asset to the city government. Thinking for oneself is not always popular; however, when used as a means to fully explore issues, it is invaluable.

It is my desire to serve Long Beach and by so doing have a part in her progress.

EDGAR J. PATTERSON

One of the reasons why I have decided to run for public office is that we cannot always let the other guy do it. We must do it ourselves.

To get the job done, whether it be in city administration or private business, you must have the cooperation of the people. Achieving and retaining cooperation can best be accomplished by communicating with the people. Discussing future city plans, proposed ordinance changes, etc., with individuals and organizations would be very enlightening and informative for office holders. It would also encourage public participation in city functions.

I have been in personnel administration and management for over 30 years, and believe this background can be helpful in public office.

BERT BRAUD

I offered myself as a candidate for the office of alderman in Long Beach because I have a deep and abiding interest in our city. I have no political ax to grind; I want to join the present administration in planning and guiding the progress of our city while retaining its atmosphere of serenity and its family life environment.

I served the city of Long Beach in the most trying time of its history following Hurricane Camille. I learned city government under conditions which I hope will never be duplicated, but at the same time I gained an experience which I sincerely believe would take many years to duplicate under ordinary circumstances.

I am ready, willing, and capable of assuming full responsibility for the office of alderman without undergoing a training period.

MICHAEL RUTLEDGE

I am a self-employed plumbing contractor and a former Long Beach policeman. A graduate of Long Beach High School and of several law enforcement schools, I am now attending Jeff Davis Jr. College. I have served in the Navy Reserves. I also serve as vice-chairman of the Long Beach Planning and Zoning Commission. I, my wife Marsh, and our two sons reside at 206 Cox Ave. in Long Beach. We are members of Sharon Baptist Church.

If elected, I will promote expansion and growth in the city of Long Beach. Because of my close relationship with the people of this community, I can help in meeting and solving the problems of this community. I also plan to initiate more community involvement in city government.

Operators earn certificates

Seventeen employees of various Gulf Coast wastewater treatment facilities will be certified as qualified operators in ceremonies Thursday Night in Biloxi.

Certificates will be awarded to the operators during the regular monthly meeting of the Water and Pollution Control Operators Association, Inc., at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, according to Association President Bobb West. The meeting will be held at the Branding Iron Restaurant, Highway 90, Biloxi.

Mississippi Air & Water Pollution Control Commission Field Representative Tom Anthony will present the operators' certificates. In addition to wastewater certificates, a Class D water plant operator certification will be presented to Richard Gay of Gulfport.

Among those receiving Class II certificates will be Ellis Hall, Sylvester Alexander, Jr., and Stephen McNair, Pass Christian; Sidney Sandoz, Bay St. Louis.

DEATHS

LEWIS W. HART
Lewis Warren Hart, 53, Nicholson Avenue, Waveland, died at 9:20 p.m., Thursday, October 17, at Earl K. Long Hospital, Baton Rouge, La.

Born February 19, 1921, in Glendale, Calif.; he was an Episcopalian and served in the U.S. Air Corps during World War II.

Mr. Hart is survived by his wife, Mrs. Marie Elsie Fose Hart, Waveland; four sons, Philip Hays Hart, Waveland; Mac Hart, Jerry Hart and Craig Hart, all of Grand Bay, Ala.; a daughter, Miss Harriet Hart, Grand Bay, and two sisters, Mrs. Harriet French and Mrs. Margaret Winter, both of Paradise, Calif.

A graveside service was held at 11 a.m. Saturday in Waveland Cemetery with Rev. Charles R. Johnson, rector Christ Episcopal Church, officiating.

Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home was in charge of arrangements.

MRS. ANASTASIA S. LADNER
Mrs. Anastasia Saucier Ladner, 76, Fenton Community, died at 11:50 a.m. Friday, October 25, at her home.

Born July 1, 1898, in Harrison County, she had resided in Fenton for 50 years. She was a member of Sacred Heart Catholic Church, Dedeaux.

Mrs. Ladner is survived by six sons, Ollis Ladner, Renelder Ladner and James B. Ladner, Pass Christian; A. D. Edward Ladner, Perkins; Leo Ladner, Long Beach, Miss.; and Merlin Ladner, Chalmette, La.; five brothers, Anno Saucier and Deutch Saucier, Gulfport; Alexander Saucier, Lanzo Saucier and Tomas Saucier, Pass Christian; a sister Christine Ladner, Pass Christian; 25 grandchildren and 24 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held at 10 a.m. Monday with a Requiem Mass at Sacred Heart Catholic Church with Rev. William Vollar officiating. Interment was in Sandhill Cemetery.

RIEMANN FAHEY FUNERAL
Home, Bay St. Louis, was in charge of arrangements.

MISS HENRIETTA MOHR
Miss Henrietta Mohr, 92, 135 DeMontluzin Avenue, Bay St. Louis, died at 10:30 p.m. Tuesday, October 22, at Hancock General Hospital.

Miss Mohr was born November 5, 1881, in New Orleans. She was a member of Christ Episcopal Church.

Survivors are two sisters, Miss Veronica Mohr, Bay St. Louis, and Mrs. Anna Sullivan, Tennessee.

Funeral services were held at 11 a.m. Thursday from Riemann-Fahey Funeral Home chapel with Dr. Gilbert Oliver, pastor Main Street United Methodist Church, officiating. Interment was in Greenwood Cemetery, New Orleans.

MRS. ROSALIE SAUCIER
Mrs. Rosalie Mary Saucier, 64, a resident of Bay St. Louis, died at 9:40 p.m., October 21 at Hancock General Hospital. She was born September 1, 1909, in Vidalia, Miss.

Survivors include her husband, Clarence A. Saucier Sr., Bay St. Louis; two sons, Clarence A. Saucier Jr., Clermont Harbor; and Douglas J. Saucier, Chicago, Ill.; six daughters, Mrs. Armar (Edna) Walker; Mrs. Donald (Helen) Weber, both of Chicago; Mrs. Bernard (Thelma) Smoot, Long Beach, Miss.; Mrs. Eddie (Rosemary) Fulton, Ocean Springs; Mrs. Virginia Wilson, Bay St. Louis, and Mrs. Eileen Hart, Gulfport; three sisters, Mrs. Cornelia Fiers, both of Chalmette, La., and Mrs. J. N. Benvenutti, Bay St. Louis; 20 grandchildren and five great-grandchildren.

Funeral services were held Thursday, October 24 at St. Clare Catholic Church, Waveland, with Rev. George Broussard, pastor, officiating. Interment was in Cedar Rest Cemetery. Pallbearers were Armar Walker, Donald Weber, Bernard Smoot, Clarence Wilson, Eddie Fulton and J. H. Benvenutti.

Taking aim

Bay St. Louis Police Chief Bill Carbonette is not going to shoot the driver of the oncoming truck but he may well give him a speeding ticket, with a "locked in" speed indicator to prove his point. The department's newly acquired radar gun, which works just like those in use by the state highway patrol, is in daily use throughout the city.

Symphony drive off to good start

New Orleans Symphony Fund Campaign Chairman Robert I. Sonfield announced to campaign leaders that the Symphony had already received a number of gifts in advance of the 1974-75 Symphony Fund Drive, which officially begins November 4th.

"It's most encouraging, with today's economy, to see this kind of early response," Sonfield said. "Significant is the fact that most of these early gifts are from contributors who are increasing the amount they have given in previous years. This is the kind of support we need to reach the $700,000 goal," he said.

Sonfield quoted from his open letter in this year's campaign brochure which he hoped would make clear to the public the need for the annual drive. "Ticket income alone cannot possibly pay for a season. Furthermore, there cannot be additional compromise or excellence will be lost. The orchestra cannot play faster or with fewer members," his letter stated.

Saucier defends private meetings

by David Pierson
Long Beach Bureau

In an October 24 interview, Pass Christian Mayor Steve Saucier defended his practice of holding closed-door meetings in his office before the regular city council meetings.

Saucier said that this procedure is much more open than many other forms of city government on the Gulf Coast.

Because the Pass Christian aldermen are "very, very part-time... and don't have the chance to keep up with the day-to-day business," Saucier said, he holds the private meetings to go over the agenda with the aldermen and bring them up to date with the city business. He said that this is necessary because several of the aldermen do not have time "to fool with the city government on a day-to-day basis" because they are not required to be an active part of a specific department.

Saucier said that the private meetings are "a streamlining process so that the public meeting runs smoothly." There has been criticism about the Pass Christian meetings being too streamlined to the point that there is no discussion or debate on any of the issues by the aldermen.

Mayor Saucier said that it confounds people that there are very few differences between the aldermen and that "you can count on one hand the number of dissenting votes we've had for one and a half years." He quickly added that this is not because of secret deals or arrangements.

"I say this because I've gotten a little punchy about it because the press has pounded on it," He emphasized repeatedly that what is done at the private meeting is merely a "review of the agenda."

When asked if the discussion of the agenda should be a matter of public record, Saucier responded, "The aldermen don't debate in here (the mayor's office)." But then Saucier said that "occasionally there will be some personality-type things where the members will be able to express themselves a little bit more adamantly in the private session. And the press does not have a role in that."

When asked why some of the aldermen are never heard at the meeting, Saucier said that the aldermen are no different behind the closed doors, adding, "We don't have grandstand people."

Saucier attacked other forms of city government, especially the commission form as found in Bay St. Louis, "where they have private meetings like this everyday." In comparison, Saucier described his private meetings paradoxically: "We are doing things in private in the open." He said that the secret meetings are done "with the flag up, and we say that we are meeting and discussing the agenda."

One of the mayor's answers, however, raised still another question as to what exactly goes on inside the meetings. In the Oct. 23 Daily Herald, Saucier was reported to have said that the city's five aldermen did not request increases in their salaries.

But in the Echo interview, Saucier gave a different response: "There was a discussion that went on in this room this past time," Saucier said, "that never got into the press as a matter of fact, in defense of your philosophy. There was a discussion about whether or not to raise the aldermen's salary. You know, that one thing did happen. That's about the only thing that would tickle the rib cage of a journalist."

Although Saucier said that this kind of discussion is a rare occurrence, there can be little question that the aldermen are more open in the private session. And in a city council where next to nothing is discussed in public, one must wonder exactly what purpose the private meetings serve.

Pass Christian

Civil Service board lists police chief nominees

A retired captain in the New Orleans Police Department, Edward Alley Jr., 50, remains

Pass Christian's leading candidate for the police chief post that Gerald Peralta resigned last month.

Alley, who retired about ten years ago from the NOPD, was recommended by the Pass Christian Civil Service Commission as its top choice. He is a Pass Christian resident who presently works as a security guard at the Michoud Plant in New Orleans.

Second on the Commission's list is ex-assistant Long Beach police chief James I. Hanley, 31. Hanley is working as an enforcement officer with the Marine Conservation Commission.

William Markopoulos, 22, a Pass Christian patrolman, was certified as the third ranking man on the list. The civil service commission made its recommendations on the basis of a civil service test administered Oct. 16. Mayor Steve Saucier discounted the civil service test as being "just academic," but he added that other candidates would have to be certified by the city's civil service commission.

Saucier said that the city would be checking further into the candidates' backgrounds. The mayor has already said that the city would prefer a man with previous law enforcement administrative experience.

No date has been set for the city council to make its final selection, and interested persons still have time to apply for the position.

Gulfport man arrested for possession

Kevin S. Gaffney, 19, of Gulfport was arrested early Friday morning in Long Beach and booked at Harrison County Jail for possession of a controlled substance. His bond was placed at $500.

The Jam-Jag is christened in Long Beach ceremonies

Sunday afternoon Pat Maxwell, wife of Mayor Sam Maxwell, christened the Long Beach Air and Marine Rescue Unit's new rescue boat "The Jam-Jag."

The name, submitted by C. E. Stringer, commemorates the four youths who lost their lives in April: John and Mike-Jeff and Gary. As a result of their tragic deaths, the air and rescue unit was formed to prevent future occurrences.

"The Jam-Jag" was selected from 300 entries by the three judges—Mrs. Connie Cole, Mrs. Miriam Ladner, and Sandra Bosarge.

The rescue unit has expressed gratitude to the following people and organizations that assisted in getting the boat: Mike Martinez, GSA representative from New Orleans; Gene Rogers, LEAD; Jack McClintock, GSA representative from Fort Worth, Texas; the U. S. Coast Guard; the U.S.M.C.; and the Seabees.

The rescue unit now plans to fix-up and clean-up the "The Jam-Jag" so that it can be operational in the near future. Friends are invited to stop by the Long Beach Smalcraft Harbor and lend a hand or just to visit.

The rescue unit, a non-profit organization, now has 40 boats and six aircraft. Among its 160 volunteer members are seven pilots, four skindivers, one parachutist, two doctors, and four emergency medical corpsmen.

According to LB Police chief Harry Kaletsch, the unit averages about ten calls a month in its area which includes six counties—Harrison, Hancock, Pearl River, Stone, George, and Jackson—and in the Gulf from Horn Island to the Louisiana marshes.

APSL:

If it looks like Chinese, it may be dyslexia

ED: NOTE: This is the second in a three-part series dealing with the perception problems of a large percentage of school age children. The series describes methods of detection and how the APSL program at Christ Episcopal Schools helps a child to deal with the problems.)

by David Pierson
Long Beach Bureau

If your child is having trouble in school, if he's losing interest, and doing poorly, and you have the feeling that the teacher wishes he'd stay home, if you punish him and that doesn't work - then maybe your child has a perception problem.

And he's not alone. There are probably 15 million school-aged children just like him. Fifteen million seat-squirmy children who almost have to be tied down to keep quiet.

If your child is like this, it may not be the teacher's fault, or yours. And possibly it's not your child's fault either. The perception problems, dyslexia and hyperkinesis, make it difficult for a child to interpret the sense perceptions that he receives. So he may have trouble reading or have troubles in math or other subjects.

Of course, maybe your child doesn't have a perception disability. But if something looks wrong with him, you take him to the doctor. Likewise, if you think that he may have a disability that stops him from learning, you should try to help him.

Ignoring the problem will help nothing, for perception problems do not go away. They will stay with your child the rest of his life. Consequently, you have two alternatives if he is dyslexic or hyperkinetic: You can try to tolerate him and occasionally spank and punish him when he gets on your nerves, or you can help him learn to deal with the problem and how he should make allowances for his differences.

Eye-glasses or hearing aids won't solve the problem, and neither will putting your child in the first row so that he can see the board better.

The important thing, however, is that the parent should be able to recognize if his child has a perception problem. The parent cannot rely on his child telling him that things look funny or sound funny because that's the way things have always appeared to him.

If your child's handwriting is illegible or poor, for example, it is not an indication that he should become a doctor or a lawyer, it is an indication that he has a perception problem and finds it difficult to form the symbols because of the central nervous system disability. Making him practice writing his name a hundred times would be as ineffective as a man trying repeatedly to high jump over a ten foot wall. He knows what he is supposed to do; he just can't do it.

Some parents are reluctant to admit that their children draw poorly. They are afraid that they will frustrate his creative impulses. Well, if the children's age are drawing well and he's drawing horses and people that look more like stick figures than anything else, then it may be an indication that the child cannot remember what something looks like. He can recognize what a horse looks like if shown a picture of one, but he cannot visualize what a horse looks like because of a perception disability.

Also, your child may be awkward or clumsy, perhaps he falls frequently. Or maybe he bumps into tables and lamps. These are indications that he is having trouble judging distances. People who are accident prone may very well be troubled by perception problems.

If your child is the closest thing to a perpetual motion machine, always getting into things - he may be hyperactive. Mrs. Pat Viguerie, supervisor of the APSL program at the Christ Episcopal schools, suggests for starters that you eliminate sugar additive foods from his diet. Candy and sugared cereals, etc. may very well make the problem worse. If he's hungry, Mrs. Viguerie says he should be given foods with natural sugars, such as fruits.

Maybe your child can read well, but he just has problems putting what he reads into his own words. If he can't remember what he reads, again he may be battling a perception problem. It may be that he is having trouble following along - a printed page. His eyes may skip down a few lines, or he may find it difficult to read from left to right. This makes it harder for him to concentrate on what he is reading because he needs all his concentration just to get the words in the right order. Obviously, his reading comprehension will suffer.

Because your child has these obstacles in his way doesn't mean that he is stupid. His mind is in there, but it can only act on the sensory perceptions that it receives. If the sensory perceptions reach the brain as something other than what they should be, it becomes that much more difficult for him to give an intelligent answer.

Many children who have this disability, in fact, have great potential. The problem is how to help them realize their full potential in spite of this handicap. The alternative is a child who hates school and just wants to get out and get the first job he sees. Most probably that person will be just as dissatisfied with his job because he has not dealt with the perception problem.

Because of this obstacle, the youngster may become slow in school, appear lazy and a daydreamer. His attention span is unusually short, and he's always restless. In addition, he begins to develop a loser's attitude; he's slow in school, and to him that means one thing - he's stupid. He loses interest in school. He develops an inferiority complex before he's even old enough to mow the lawn. He's a failure. Or so he thinks.

Imagine the frustration of an intelligent child who cannot succeed in school, especially today when we place so much emphasis on getting a good education.

His parents punish him because he causes problems. He does poorly in school in spite of the fact that he is really trying. He hates school because that's the start of all his problems. And gradually he grows to hate himself.

Because he cannot get acceptance, he tries for the next best thing - attention. He is immature, and impulsive; and sometimes his behavior is even explosive.

As he gets bigger, the problems get bigger. He openly rebels against authority because he cannot deal with it and it cannot deal with him. He cannot get respect for what he does in school; so he tries to get attention for what he can do to the school, or anything else.

Especially in our accelerated lifestyles today, dyslexic or hyperkinetic children can find hundreds of ways to express their frustrations. Juvenile delinquency, sexual promiscuity and drug abuse are natural avenues for them to take.

Of course, perception problems alone cannot account for the generation gap, but it apparently accounts for some of the problems. How much we don't know. We may be looking at the tip of an iceberg.

Mrs. Viguerie, working with these children, says that when they see someone take an interest in them, they begin to take an interest in themselves.

With the APSL program children feel that they are making progress. "And when you work with them," says Mrs. Viguerie, "you see them reach for themselves. And as they reach, they mature. You see them grow. They know someone is trying to help them."

Next week: an in-depth look at the APSL program at Coast Episcopal High School in Pass Christian.

Sunday is auspicious day at Trinity Episcopal Church

Sunday was an auspicious day for the members of Trinity Episcopal Church in Pass Christian as the church celebrated its 125th anniversary and the institution of a new rector.

The day began with the Rite of Confirmation by Rt. Rev. Duncan M. Gray, Jr., Bishop of Mississippi and the new rector, the Rev. H. McDonald Morse.

At the 10 a.m. service Rev. Durrie Hardin, immediate past rector who served Trinity parish for 20 years, presented a sermon outlining the historical background of the church.

Also participating in the celebration of the Mass was the Rt. Rev. Cirault M. Jones, retired Bishop of Louisiana and a former rector of Trinity.

Special recognition was given to Mrs. Lillie Spence, the longest continuing member of the church and to Mrs. Elmer Northrop, the oldest living member. Other long serving members were also recognized.

Rev. Morse was formerly rector and chaplain to students at the University of Mississippi at St. Peter's Episcopal Church in Oxford, Miss. from 1965-1974. He was vicar of St. Andrews Episcopal Church, Santo Domingo Dominican Republic and Headmaster of St. Andrew's and St. Mark's School, Santo Domingo, 1962-1965.

Prior to that he served at Starkville, West Point, Belzoni and Inverness in Mississippi. He received a Master of Divinity from the Episcopal Seminary in Philadelphia and a B.S. degree from Mississippi State University in 1950.

He has served as Vice

Christ Episcopal design is award winner

The design of Christ Episcopal Church in Bay St. Louis has won an honor award for a New Orleans architectural firm, J. Buchanan Blitch and Associates, from the Gulf States Region of the American Institute of Architects.

The award was for "excellence of design" and was given to the Blitch firm in competition with architects throughout Mississippi.

Louisiana, Alabama, Arkansas and Tennessee.

Designed to replace a historic church destroyed by Hurricane Camille in 1969, the award-winning church is a blend of contemporary and traditional architecture. It was one of 10 churches cited for architectural excellence in its design by the national Guild for Religious Architecture in 1972. Christ Episcopal Church was dedicated on April 18, 1971.

Other honor awards by the Gulf States Region, AIA, were given to Curtis and Davis, New Orleans, for design of the firm's offices in New Orleans; and to Gassner-Nathan-Browne, architectural firm of Memphis, for a branch bank building at Memphis.

Mark Twain visits Bay Theatre

"An Evening With Mark Twain" will be presented Saturday night at 8 at the Little Theatre on Boardman Avenue in Bay St. Louis. The two-act dramatic monologue will be presented by J. D. Drake, tennis pro at Tension Racquet Club.

Drake graduated from the University of Southern Mississippi with a Bachelor's Degree in American Studies, and received his Master's Degree in the same subject from Mississippi College in Clinton. Having had a long-time interest in Mark Twain, Drake finds himself in agreement with many of Mark Twain's basic philosophies, particularly his theory that a person can control his life factors to maintain independence and that one's independence is tremendously important.

Drake began giving the Twain monologue as successor to two friends, Bob Sheffield and his wife. The Sheffields are professional actors who travel and perform for students in schools in the South.

Among their acts was this one, and when they changed their program, they were succeeded by Drake, who also says that Hal Holbrook was a great inspiration. Drake has since performed for conventions and civic groups at the Sheraton in Biloxi, the Downtowner in Gulfport, in Laurel, Yazoo City, and other cities in Mississippi.

Ostomy Assn. meets Wed.

H. E. "Mike" Schreiber of Kansas City, Kansas, a member of the board of directors of the United Ostomy Association, will speak at the November meeting of the Gulf Coast Ostomy Association.

The meeting will be held at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday in the nursing classroom on the ground floor of Howard Memorial Hospital in Biloxi.

The Gulf Coast Ostomy Association is affiliated with UOA, which has chapters in all fifty states. The Association's goal is to help return all ostomates to a normal and productive life.

Those in the coast area with a colostomy, ileostomy, or urostomy, along with members of their families, are invited to attend. They do not have to be members of the Association.

Got an odd job needs doing?

Pass Christian residents are reminded that the Pass Christian High Student Council work week is still in progress and ends tomorrow.

So when a student requests an odd job to perform in return for a donation for the council, please be a good citizen and come up with something. The working students are eager to please, and this is a rare chance for residents to get all those little things done that never seem to get done otherwise!

Country Fair comes to the Gulf Coast

Everything from parachute jumps to a husband calling contest and a greased pig catch will take place during the first annual WVMI Country Fair. WVMI in cooperation with the North Biloxi Jaycees will host the fair during the first three days of November.

The fair will be located at the Dilberville Community Center Complex which includes the football stadium, baseball field and surrounding area.

The Radio chairman of the fair is Steve Dickerson, operations director of WVMI. Chairman for the North Biloxi Jaycees is Jim Roberts. Dickerson says, "The fair will be open to all residents of the Gulf Coast and will be the first old fashioned Country Fair on the Coast."

One of the highlights of the fair will be the appearance of country star O. B. McClinton of Senatobia, Miss. McClinton, who is known as "Mr. Personality" of country music, will make two appearances. His free performances are at 6 p.m. and 9 p.m. November 1 at the fair site.

McClinton has had such hits as "Don't Let The Green Grass Fool You," "My Whole House is Falling Down," and "If You Loved Her That Way." McClinton has appeared at several state fairs this year in addition to television appearances and a guest on the "Grand Old Opry."

Since the fair comes at the conclusion of Country Music Month, music will be a large part of the fair. A Saturday noon rock concert will feature several local bands. The finale of the fair will include a country band concert which will begin at 5:30 p.m. Sunday and provide several hours of bluegrass, old and modern country music.

The fair will include unusual activities such as hog and turkey calling contests. Those two activities will be held Sunday afternoon at 1 and 1:30 respectively.

Contestants will be asked to pay a small registration fee for these and most other activities which will allow them to compete for ribbons, trophies and other prizes. The hog and turkey calling contest will allow the contestant to see just how sharp his calls are.

Another unusual contest will be tobacco spitting, which is open to all contestants who are brave enough to bite off a chunk, swish it in the mouth for a while and then bare back and see how far they can propel the juice.

One contest set aside just for the youngsters is the greased pig catch. There will be three different times that children can scramble after "Sandra." The first time children will chase "Sandra" will be Saturday afternoon at 3:45 p.m. This scramble is open to children from ages 9-14.

Two pig scrambles will be held Sunday. The first at 4:30 and the second at 5 p.m. Children will be awarded prizes for catching the slippery pig.

Two events which are expected to draw a lot of attention are the horse show and the softball throwing contest. Preliminaries will be held prior to the fair. The finals for the softball throwing will be Saturday afternoon at 4 p.m. The four finalists will be judged on fullness of the net and accuracy. The horse show pitching finals will be Sunday afternoon at 2 p.m. The first contestant reaching 21 points either by ringers or leaneers will win.

Although women can enter all contests, one contest has been especially set aside for the womenfolk. That will be the softball throwing contest Sunday afternoon at 4 p.m. Several women are expected to enter this contest and test their throwing arm.

Friday night will bring some of the best square dancing along the coast to one location. Six different square dance clubs will exhibit their dancing skills. Local residents are invited to join the dancers for some old time dancing. Along with the square dancing will be a fiddling contest Friday night.

Several area high school senior classes have indicated they will participate in the tug-of-war set for Saturday morning at 10. Each senior class can have 20 members on the team which will try to pull the other class across the center line. Area schools which have indicated they will participate include Pascagoula, Saint Martin, EastCentral in Hurley, Biloxi High, Long Beach and even Mobile, Alabama.

Besides all of the other activity, there will be carnival rides, games and plenty to eat at the fair. Several non-profit organizations will have booths at the fair. These groups include Sacred Heart CYO, DiTerville and Biloxi Football Booster Clubs, several PTA's and other church organizations.

The first Country Queen will be crowned Saturday night at 8 o'clock.

NOTICE TO THE PUBLIC
DECLARE INTENT TO ISSUE
$300,000 HANCOCK COUNTY BONDS

The Board of Supervisors of Hancock County, Mississippi again look up for consideration the matter of extending and constructing airport runways at Stennis International Airport within Hancock County under provisions of Chapter 199, Laws of Mississippi of 1956 as amended by Chapter 226, Laws of Mississippi of 1960, and Chapter 3, Laws of Extraordinary Session of 1961 and Chapter 395, Laws of 1962. After discussion of the subject by the Board of Supervisors, Supervisor Travrice offered and moved the adoption of the following resolution:

RESOLUTION DECLARING THE INTENTION OF THE BOARD OF SUPERVISORS OF HANCOCK COUNTY, MISSISSIPPI TO ISSUE BONDS OF SAID COUNTY IN AN AMOUNT NOT EXCEEDING $300,000 UNDER THE PROVISIONS OF CHAPTER 199, LAWS OF MISSISSIPPI OF 1956 AS AMENDED BY CHAPTER 226, LAWS OF MISSISSIPPI OF 1960, AND BY CHAPTER 3, LAWS OF EXTRAORDINARY SESSION OF 1961 AND CHAPTER 395, LAWS OF 1962.

WHEREAS acting under and pursuant to the provisions of Chapter 393, Laws of Mississippi of 1962, the Board of Supervisors of Hancock County has heretofore by resolution adopted on the 26th of January 1966 created in said county a Port and Harbor Commission for the purpose of exercising the powers and duties prescribed by said statute and the laws above mentioned; and

WHEREAS, the said Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission has jurisdiction over the construction, maintenance and operation of the county airport runways at Stennis International Airport; and

WHEREAS, the Board of Supervisors having been heretofore advised by the aforesaid Port and Harbor Commission by appropriate resolution spread on the minutes of this Board as follows to-wit:

CERTIFIED RESOLUTION

OF THE

HANCOCK COUNTY PORT

AND HARBOR COMMISSION

Upon motion by Commissioner

DeBlanc, the following resolution was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, on July 19, 1973, by virtue of a resolution of the Commission of Budget and Accounting of the State of Mississippi, Hancock County was authorized to withhold one (1) mill of the State Ad Valorem tax for and for authority to levy one-fourth (1/4) mill County wide tax for a period of fifteen (15) years, beginning with the tax assessment year, January 1, 1973, under the provisions of Section 27-39-7 of Mississippi Code of 1972, as amended, for the purpose of planning, constructing and erecting runways at Stennis International Airport; and

WHEREAS, Hancock County is presently engaged in ADAP Project No. 7-28-0005-01, a $2,775,830.00 expansion project at the Stennis International Airport, on a matching fund basis; and

WHEREAS, the Federal Aviation Administration has made available a grant in the amount of $2,081,000.00 providing Hancock County funds the balance of $694,830.00, and

WHEREAS, Hancock County presently has $394,830.00 of the matching funds in the airport construction fund of the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission presently committed to the ADAP Project No. 7-28-0005-01, and

WHEREAS, an additional $300,000 is needed as matching funds for the said ADAP Project No. 7-28-0005-01; and

WHEREAS, it is unnecessary to levy the one quarter (1/4) mill as required by statute since the County now has in effect a two (2) mill local levy for maintenance and operation of the Port and Harbor Commission and consequently provides, by the local levy, the funds required in local levy by Section 27-39-7 of Mississippi Code of 1972, since said statute requires a one quarter (1/4) mill for each mill withheld from the state levy, now therefore

BE IT RESOLVED that the County Port and Harbor Commission recommends to the Hancock County Board of Supervisors that the said Board shall issue Bonds of Hancock County in the amount of $300,000.00 for the purpose of providing the balance of its share of the matching funds in connection with the construction and erection of runways at Stennis International Airport and said funds be applied to project ADAP 7-28-0005-01, with the bonds to be serviced by funds obtained from the retention of (1) mill of the State Ad Valorem Taxes Levy as provided by Section 27-39-7 of Mississippi Code, 1972.

CERTIFICATION

I, JAMES C. DEBLANC,

Secretary to the Hancock County Port and Harbor Commission do hereby certify that the above and foregoing is a true and correct copy of a resolution adopted by this Commission at its special meeting of August 22, held in its offices, Highway 603, Waveland, Mississippi at 7:30 p.m.

Colling's Corner

By E.S. Colling

"The wind was a torrent of darkness
among the gusty trees.
The moon was a ghostly galleon
tossed upon cloudy seas."

Maybe we didn't actually use those words, but that's the way the night felt when we tiptoed out of the house on Halloween Night to begin our plundering. It was the Eve of Allhallowmas, the night before all the saints celebrated another year of heavenly favor.

We scurried through the cold gusts, adjusting our homemade mask that we fancied made us look like one of the Imps of Hell, we carefully avoided even glancing at the old and deserted house which everyone knew was inhabited by evil spirits, just now probably romping in their ebullient rites, with a hideous witch at the front window ready to pounce on any small boy who dared to peek at the satanic mysteries. Safely down the road, we came next to Hawkins' Grove, a dark, moaning mass of trees in the midst of which we detected a ghostly glimmer of light; that must be where the witches were boiling their kettle of magic brew, dropping into it horrid morsels of toads' eyes and birds' claws as they sang the praises of Kibmrrw, the Queen Witch. We scurried past the woods at top speed, and came at last to where the gang had gathered at the edge of the village.

Enboldened by the safety of numbers, we now launched our attack on the citizens, whom we hoped were now shivering behind their bolted shutters. From house to house we went, groaning and shrieking, holding out hands, caps, bags and baskets for the ransom payments of candy, cookies and chewing gum. In those days before electric refrigerators, folks kept their iceboxes on their back porches, and if the ransom received at the front door was deemed inadequate, a raid on the icebox was inevitable, and many a jug of sweet cider or pail of buttermilk was confiscated.

So the old traditions of Halloween were carried on. Witches date back to Roman times, and hobgoblins and ghosts preceded them in history and fiction, and many a trembling old woman has suffered for her physical resemblance to one of the supernatural. Which is odd, for the very next day we are asked to honor all the thousands of saints who have won their positions because of kindness and mercy and heavenly love.

Some have said that the witches and ghosts are Satan's henchmen, that Halloween is his one night of release from God's restrictions. And, as one small boy remembers, there was enough devilry going on in our village on that one night to last His Nibs for the rest of the year.

Exit Jaworski

There were those, nearly a year ago, in the wake of the Saturday night massacre, who doubted the qualifications of Leon Jaworski to succeed Archibald Cox as the Watergate special prosecutor.

He was a Houston attorney, without experience as a prosecutor or in government except in the Nuremberg trials. He had been one of Lyndon Johnson's personal attorneys and had been described as no crusader while serving as president of the American Bar Association. He was 68 years old, had made a lot of money and was believed ready to retire to his Texas ranch.

Could such a man handle the pressures of the Watergate prosecution and control a high-powered staff of young prosecutors ready to resign at the drop of a hat if they were crossed?

The answer, a year later, is a quiet and emphatic yes.

Jaworski has added immeasurably to the stature of the legal profession at the same time that some of its younger practitioners, especially those who were in the White House, have been giving the law a bad name.

His courage, stamina and integrity now are unquestioned. He brought a sitting president himself to the bar of justice, first as an unindicted co-conspirator in the as-yet-unpublished report of the Watergate grand jury, then as the defendant in the landmark case of U.S. versus Nixon in the Supreme Court.

When Jaworski won that case, that was the ball game. The forced disclosure of the June 23, 1972, tape recording was a forerunner of the president's resignation and, indeed, a forerunner of Jaworski's own decision to resign.

What remains for the prosecutor's staff, notably the Watergate cover-up trial now in progress and the later publication of a comprehensive report including all the evidence of presidential involvement, is clean-up work.

Jaworski was right to defend in his own final report the right of President Ford to pardon the former president. He will never be vindictive and he has a firm grasp of the fundamentals of the law, from which he refuses to swerve.

His recommendation of his 43-year-old deputy, Henry Ruth, for consideration as his successor is a good one. Ruth has been with the special prosecutor's office from the beginning and can be relied on to maintain its independence and to bring its work to an orderly and honorable conclusion.

"TRICK OR TREAT!"

Our Readers Write

Dear Sir:

I am writing this letter to try to clarify the role of a humane society in the set-up which confronts the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc.

First and foremost, we do not have a shelter, warden, truck, etc., of our own. What we work with is what is provided for the citizens of the two communities by their elected officials. We help them, help the animals, try to have the dogs adopted, to make their lives more bearable while they are confined.

While we can work in Hancock County on cruelty cases, we cannot offer any assistance for the distress calls, such as "a dog was just hit by a car in front of my house, send somebody out to pick it up", or "someone in a truck just dumped the puppies out in my yard, send the warden out to get them".

Our society was formed because animal lovers, we were often approached by friends, relatives, acquaintances, or just plain folk, with the request, "why is it this county has no S.P.C.A., humane group, or something of that sort?" We need badly. If one is formed, we will do all we can to help to make it a success. We listened to these declarations and when the opportunity of a donor presented itself, we formed that group, not incorporated, began the ground work, and began calling upon all those people who had encouraged us.

Somehow, a change of heart had taken place. People were too involved in other activities to give their time to a humane group, animals just were not that important. We were politely, and not so politely, refused. We learned the difference between "animal lover" and "pet lover". The public wants the animals taken care of so as not to be a bother to them, but no one wanted to volunteer a few hours a week to do it. "Let George do it" was the response. Undaunted and with those long-range promises still ringing in our trustful ears, we began approaching the groups, begging to let us make a short speech to their members, to try to get members and workers for our cause. Dates were made for us to speak, firm dates, but when we presented ourselves, full of hope and faith, we were turned away, "not the proper time" we were told or "we forgot".

We visited every school in the area - (those far up in the county we contacted by mail) and left literature for the teachers - "teach children to love and be kind to animals and it will come to pass that they will be kinder to each other"; this was one aspect we stressed. Over a year has passed and not one teacher, not one school has bothered to contact us. This we mourn because we need the young people, they are our fund raisers, our enthusiastic future, the ones who will carry the torch when we are gone. Not a one.

Still, although our confidence was rather thin, we turned to our religious leaders. "This too is life" we pleaded, but life we are trying to live cannot do it alone". We have not had an answer there either. We are weakened in spirit, we are weary of our civic leaders. The citizens have such lovely, exotic, and expensive benefactors! What we need is a "pet" then! But, backs to the wall, we turn to the other side of the fence. People think nothing of leaving their homes, all hours of the day, for help. We are asked to come out and bury the puppies, so that it is properly done. When we are forced to refuse because it is not humanly possible, we are repeatedly told, "we are getting a fat salary, we are often told. Dear people of Bay-Waveland, Hancock County, Miss., we of the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., do NOT receive a salary of any kind. We spend a considerable amount of our own personal money on the animals, we spend what we have left of the meager funds of the Bay-Waveland Society, but none of us receive a salary. Ask your elected officials if you do not believe us."

We are not paid payroll, county, city or state. We are the society's, not of the county, but as animals' welfare is our concern, when you speak with us, we are donating our services, and when you visit the shelters of the county, do not call us and tear us to pieces because conditions are not what you would like. Do not tell us as one might do this week, "you can call it a shelter, but to me it stinks".

Do not think that we already do not know that. We agree with you and we think it could be better. But, under the conditions, what we work with is all we have. We must do with that or we have nothing. Such as it is, this is what we have. We provide for the animals and we work like beavers to improve it. We have shelters, perhaps it could be better, but where can we find them? Just a week we had two new members, out-of-towners, who were looking for lost dogs. These people saw our puppies, could not sleep that night, and when they saw, we have their written word on this, and joined us. Perhaps this little bit will help some of those miserable conditions we saw."

About the most cruel and heartless we have to deal with are the people who dump small puppies out on us. We are not equipped for puppies. In the past two weeks' time we have had six deaths at the shelter due to the fact that the large dogs trample the puppies, and don't allow the smaller ones to eat so they starve to death. We ask these callers to bring the puppies to the Harrison County Shelter where they are equipped for puppies. The people agree to do so and then the same day we find the poor unfortunates on our doorsteps.

This letter may sound negative, a true swan song. As if the Bay-Waveland Humane Society, Inc., is calling it quits and going out of business. No, that is not the reason for writing. We few who are committed to the cause will continue to work, regardless of how formidable the odds. But we ask of you who call or visit us...have patience, understanding and compassion. Remember, we will do all we can to help you within possibility.

But we are few, our funds are very limited, and none of us are of the youth age group. Could we also ask you to be polite? To not blame us for conditions over which we have no control? Perhaps those calls of anger would better serve the purpose if they were made to your elected officials who provide what animal control that exists, not to us.

We thank you for your attention in reading this. We thank the editor for publishing it.

Sincerely,

CALM HISTORIC MOMENT

President candid

An inevitable characteristic of historic moments is that they arouse expectations. Persons who experience them expect to have a substantial emotional experience whether it be jubilation or despair.

It certainly was an historic moment in the United States of America when President Ford appeared in person to tell a House Judiciary subcommittee why he pardoned former President Richard Nixon. He was perhaps the first president in the nation's history to do so, and the dramatic moment was brought to American living rooms by live television coverage.

However, as far as we can tell, the general feeling among Americans was one of anticlimax rather than historic importance.

President Ford was impressive in his candor and directness — "straight talk" as he calls it. If the committee was less impressive it was perhaps because there may be no new questions or answers surrounding the pardoning of Nixon.

If the committee expected to hear about another conspiracy at the highest level of government, it was disappointed. In plain language Mr. Ford made it clear that he made the decision to pardon former President Nixon himself, after doing his homework on constitutional and other questions. The President was categorical in his assertion that he made no deals with anybody.

In short, the historic two-hour-long meeting of the chief executive with members of the legislative branch of government produced nothing that wasn't already public knowledge, except perhaps for a deeper insight into the thinking of President Ford.

We would doubt that there is anything else to explore in the area of the relationship of President Ford and Nixon during the period of the pardoning. That leaves only the moral and philosophical questions about equal justice under the law for men of high places and ordinary citizens — about the degree of punishment that should be applied against a president who resigns for less than honorable reasons. The moral question has been argued since time immemorial and probably will be discussed as long as men are governed by laws. It assuredly cannot be answered in a brief meeting in a political arena.

Mr. Ford's purpose in breaking precedent to appear in that arena was, as he made clear, for the same reasons that he granted the pardon in the first place. He wants to put the nationally debilitating matter of Watergate behind the nation so that the United States can concentrate on more productive matters.

Whether he succeeded in laying the pardon question to rest is doubtful. Everything connected with Watergate appears to have nine or more lives.

This little orange-and-black UNICEF box will be a familiar sight on Halloween when millions of youngsters ring America's doorbells to request help for needy children in the developing world. A nickel dropped in a UNICEF carton can feed five malnourished African children. A dime cures two youngsters of trachoma. A quarter buys exercise books for eight poverty-stricken Asian or Latin American school children anxious to learn. With our help at Halloween UNICEF can do a world of good for all the world's children.

Reflections of the past

PUBLIC SCHOOL DRESS CODES were obviously considerably more lax in 1920 than they are today, judging by the baggy knickers and bare feet prevalent among these young students in the Lakeshore School. Perhaps the acquisition of knowledge was considered more important than conformity of dress by the principal, Professor Dan Everett, center, and teachers Miss Belle Bordages, Miss Slade of Poplarville,

Steps outlined to reduce heat costs

In keeping with President Ford's call to "Whip Inflation Now," homeowners can take several steps to help reduce heating costs and eliminate energy wastes this winter, according to Mississippi Power Company local manager Perry Gibson.

"For each degree you lower your thermostat, your heating costs will be reduced five per cent," Gibson said. "Sixty-eight degrees is the suggested level."

"Once you set your thermostat, leave it there," he also advised. "Constantly changing the thermostat setting prevents your heating system from operating efficiently, wastes energy, and causes you bodily discomfort."

"One of the biggest and most costly wastes of electricity is the loss of heating through ceilings, floors, outside walls, and windows," Gibson said. "When your house is well insulated, your heating system doesn't have to work as hard. You stay comfortable, and you're not paying for energy that is wasted."

Gibson suggested that homeowners take special efforts to insulate and weatherstrip vulnerable areas of the house such as ceilings, floors and walls and around windows and doors. It takes twice as much electricity to heat an uninsulated home as an insulated one.

Other suggestions to help save on heating costs this winter are—Have the entire heating system cleaned and checked at the beginning of the heating season. Clean or change filters monthly for more efficient operation of the system.

"When the sun is shining, let it in; otherwise, close drapes, shades and blinds for extra insulation."

"Don't heat the outdoors! Close doors to basements, garages, or other unheated areas."

"Be sure the damper is closed in the fireplace when not in use. An open fireplace can draw up to 20 per cent of the warm air out of the home."

"Keep all furniture and drapes clear of air grills. Items that restrict the flow of air cause the heating system to work harder."

"Electric heating has become increasingly popular in new and remodeled homes in recent years," Gibson said. "By following these tips this winter, you can make the most efficient use of electric heat in your home."

NAACP director to speak in Bay

Dr. Emmett C. Burns, Jr., Mississippi State field director for the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, will be the guest speaker at a public meeting Friday at the One Hundred Men's Hall in Bay St. Louis.

Christmas seals aid research

The 68th Annual Christmas Seal Campaign will open in Hancock County Friday, with the mailing of Christmas Seals to residents, according to Mrs. Elda Duke, County Chairman of the Hancock County Chapter of the Mississippi Lung Association.

Proceeds of the campaign will be used by the association to combat emphysema, tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis, asthma and other respiratory diseases during the coming year.

"Your Christmas Seal association is waging a relentless fight against the suffering, tragedy and loss of time and money that result from respiratory diseases that affect breathing. Included among these respiratory diseases are emphysema, tuberculosis, chronic bronchitis, asthma, hay fever and other viral, fungus and allergic conditions and diseases that affect the lungs and respiratory system," reported Mrs. Duke.

"Many volunteers have spent untold hours preparing the Christmas Seal letters for mailing in an effort to give every citizen a chance to contribute in the battle against emphysema, tuberculosis, other respiratory diseases, and air pollution."

"Last year in Mississippi, there were 485 new cases of tuberculosis discovered. Already through early October of 1974, there have been 342 new cases of tuberculosis reported. We must continue to expand our efforts to find hidden cases of tuberculosis in our community. Christmas Seal contributions are used throughout the year in programs of education, case-finding, treatment, patient services, rehabilitation, medical education and research."

A portion of all contributions will be used for the support of the Christmas Seal Professor of Respiratory Disease at the University of Mississippi Medical School.

Of every dollar contributed, 90 cents remains in Mississippi; ten cents goes to support the work of the American Lung Association in research and other phases of tuberculosis and respiratory disease control programs.

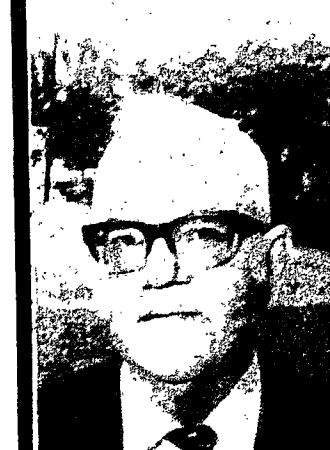

"We hope that the citizens of Hancock County will give their generous financial support so that our programs can be continued and expanded in the coming year," stated Mrs. Duke.

Site spotted for petrochemical plant

The best site on the Mississippi-Alabama Gulf Coast for a giant petrochemical complex serving an offshore superport is in northern Jackson County, according to an environmental impact study given to Gov. William L. Waller.

The 238-page study by the University of Mississippi's Mineral Resources Institute was requested by the governor one year ago to estimate the potential hazards to Mississippi from a superport and its sister petrochemical plants.

Dr. Velon H. Minshew, chairman of the Ole Miss Department of Geology and Geological Engineering, said. The primary threat to the environment from plants Geology, were the principal writers of the study and were assisted by graduate students Conrad A. Gazier of Bayou La Batre, Ala., and Lynn P. Malbrough of Montegut, La. "We found that the inland development accompanying an offshore superport can be located in northern Jackson County with minimal harm to the environment, if proper care is taken," Dr. Minshew said.

"The area considered to be the best location for a large scale petrochemical complex is on the stranded alluvial plain of the Pascagoula River northwest of Wade and west of Black Creek Swamp in Jackson County," the report Dr. Thomas H. Waller, assistant professor of at that location would be from siltation but that could be avoided if "special care" is taken during construction of the complex.

A second effect on the environment would be on ground water recharge. The study concluded that such an effect would be minimal.

Four other sites were discussed in the study. In addition, "Three areas were considered as possible sites for the proposed pipeline route to the mainland from the offshore docking facility. The Bayou Casotte area is considered the best location for the pipeline."

The study also concluded that "The Mississippi-Alabama coastal area is better suited for the location of a superport and related landward activities than is the Louisiana coastal area from an environmental and resource viewpoint."

One major problem for future development on the coast may be the water supply.

"Jackson County is today experiencing significant problems with the fresh water supply. Unless measures are taken in the near future, the problem can become critical," the study noted.

Dr. Minshew suggested that the best solution to the water supply problem would be the construction of a reservoir in the Pascagoula River in southern George County. "Several proposals have been formulated to impound surface water in Jackson County. In the opinion of the senior author (Minshew) these proposals have serious deficiencies."

Dr. Minshew said an impoundment in the Pascagoula River would cause "significant environmental alterations, but they would be manageable if care is taken."

The institute's study is one of a series prepared for the governor concerning efforts by Mississippi and Alabama to obtain a license for the construction and operation of a deepwater port facility in the Gulf of Mexico south of Pascagoula-Mobile.

The Council on Environmental Quality, in its report, concluded that the landslide impact of petrochemical refineries and industries posed a more serious threat to the environment of the area than possible damage due to oil spills.

Dr. Waller, a native of Texas which already has a massive petrochemical industry, was personally aware of the hazards before undertaking the study.

Speaking of the area between Houston and Texas City, Dr. Waller said, "I have never seen so much industry...one refinery or petrochemical plant after another. This highly industrialized area of Texas is beyond help with such problems as water pollution and land subsidence. Industry has withdrawn vast quantities of water from the ground which has led to large areas of land sinking below sea level."

The study found reports stating Jackson County is already suffering from land subsidence to be untrue. The researchers' investigations determined "no conclusive evidence was present to indicate differential subsidence related to ground water withdrawal in the Bayou Casotte and Pascagoula areas." The specific guidelines for Mississippi were listed in the study, but some general recommendations were made.

"The Mississippi coastal zone is a natural dynamic ecosystem," the study said. "Nature does not recognize political boundaries. If development is to be orderly and for the benefit for the entire coast, planning must be established upon a REGIONAL, not city or county, basis. The actions in one county can have immediate, either good or bad, effects on surrounding counties."

"The resources of the coastal area are diversified; and with proper utilization, each resource and county can enhance the development of the other, but development should be based upon the natural carrying capacity of individual areas."

The study listed seven specific recommendations:

1. "Spoil associated with channelization should be disposed of in a manner compatible with coastal processes."
2. "Where possible, natural vegetation of the coastal area must be preserved, especially in areas of active processes."
3. "If the coastlines are to be utilized, the natural processes of the entire coastline must be understood and construction should be in accordance with the natural processes."

4. "Land reclamation projects can provide valuable property for development, but these projects can adversely affect biologic productivity, hydrologic circulation patterns, sediment disposal patterns, and other natural processes."

5. "Channels or passes should be constructed to enhance natural passes. One danger of artificial passes is the possible effect these passes can have on hurricane storm surges. These passes can serve to funnel storm surges toward mainland areas."

6. "Shoreline erosion can be a major problem in coastal areas. Little is known about the equilibrium conditions of the Mississippi beaches. Qualitative and quantitative analyses should be initiated immediately to determine the shoreline processes along the Mississippi coast."

7. "Continued industrialization will result in increased demands on the ground water, thereby accelerating the fall in ground water levels. This area should be monitored carefully and continuously to guard against subsidence."

Scouting is the greatest developers of leaders in the world today.

Of the original 29 astronauts, 27 of them were former Scouts, and 18 were Eagles, the highest rank in Scouting. President Ford is an Eagle and was active in the Adult Scouting program. Sixty percent of the public leaders were Scouts.

When most people thought that leadership could not be taught, the Boy Scouts of America insisted that it could be and how it is recognized worldwide that they do a tremendous job in the training of leaders.

The understanding of a free enterprise system on which America was built and now thrives on is the basis of our program. It is his own initiative and ingenuity that sees him through.

The Scout organization believes that a boy should be self-reliant. He should pay his own way. He is carried off to the woods and given a place to make his temporary home, cook his own meals and make his own bed, wash his own dishes, make his own fire and interact in his own group, without the assistance of his parents.

How he reacts to these circumstances dictates his own welfare and comfort for the period. If he doesn't cook he goes hungry, if his shelter is not made to withstand the elements he will sleep wet or cold, if the fire is not made he will eat cold food or go hungry.

If his reaction to the Boy Leader is not the accepted by his peers he is ostracized to be accepted back into the group only when he accepts responsibility. We don't want a boy to fail but we teach him to face defeat and the tenacity to come back.

Scouting builds character in a time when the youth are decidedly are not encouraged to be of good character. In these days of drop in church attendance and the seeming lack of any real influence of the youth, Scouting is growing and will grow as fast as the income allows. It cost approximately $30 per year to keep a boy in Scouting, in the state of Mississippi about $10,000 to keep him in the reform school.

Scouting - a developer of leaders

By survey about 80 percent of all boys want to be involved in the program, which is currently serving 25 percent of all boys in the U.S., but only 17 percent in the Hancock County area. The problem in serving all boys through institutions such as schools, churches, clubs and other groups of citizens is the need for trained volunteers in the community. Boys want to be in the program which is limited to the number of boys that a man can serve.

Scouting is a positive program. A Scout is trustworthy, loyal, helpful and he will do his best.

A boy should be recognized for what he does right at Courts of Honor, a court established for him because he deserves the honor.

Scouting cost less to maintain than any other youth program. Its growth depends not on the interest of youth, because they are interested, but on the generosity of America's people, through time to work with youth, and money for the administration of the program.

PROGRAMS EXPANDED

Innovations instituted at the University of Mississippi include: liberalization of grading procedures to allow students to take courses on a pass-fail basis. In addition, programs which permit students to earn credit by examination have been expanded.

Editor's Note: The following article on the energy crisis comes from The White House and is an attempt at clarification of this Nation's dependence on foreign petroleum, and the President's counter measure, Project Independence.

President Ford startled millions of Americans recently when he remarked that results to date of Project Independence were "disappointing."

There is no question that the United States energy situation is deteriorating despite all of the actions which have been taken in the name of Project Independence - the concerted effort to reduce our dependence on foreign petroleum. Domestic oil production is not increasing. It has declined from 1970 to the present. And between now and 1977 it will, at best, hold constant and probably drift somewhat lower.

Natural gas supplies are still very short. Consumption continues to outpace discoveries, and curtailments may reach as much as 10 per cent of demand this winter.

The nuclear industry continues to lag. Poor quality control is causing operational problems at existing plants; delays make the lead time nine to 10 years. Nuclear power today accounts for the same percentage of energy supplies as firewood.

Coal production will be limited unless environmental standards are modified and new markets developed. Coal is our nation's most abundant resource, but we cannot use all the coal we can produce.

On the positive side, it is possible to report that refineries are being built again. And despite our dislike for the higher prices following upon the Arab oil embargo, the fact remains that this has helped to cut down on spiraling demand.

Project Independence has two facets - saving energy and increasing energy supplies.

For the short term, energy conservation holds out greater hope for reducing our dependence on foreign petroleum than does the potential for expansion of supply.

The problem is that the conservation ethic has not yet become a part of American life. This is why President Ford has so heavily emphasized the need for energy saving and has delivered the kind of pep talk exemplified by his address October 15 in Kansas ("Ily to the Future Farmers of America).

We all know the answer, and the Federal Energy Administration has been pushing it - carpooling, using public transportation, reducing electric light wattage, lowering thermostats in winter and turning them higher in summer, and installing commercial and residential insulation.

In addition, FEA has begun a series of conferences on industrial conservation with the six largest energy-consuming industries in the country - oil refiners, cement, aluminum, chemicals, steel and paper - to develop a comprehensive conservation program.

FEA also is working with State governments to formulate and implement energy policy. Last September 25 FEA allocated $10 million to the states and territories for fuel activities and to implement high priority energy management programs, including conservation.

FEA also is pushing for passage of the Special Energy Act of 1974, which would authorize mandatory energy conservation measures and rationing, if it should become necessary. Another FEA-backed bill is the Appliance and Motor Vehicle Energy Labeling Act, which requires that major vehicles, as well as appliances, be labeled to show their energy usage and efficiency.

On the supply end of Project Independence, we are building the Alaskan Pipeline, which promises to produce 1.2 million barrels of oil a day by 1977 and 2 million by 1980.

We have accelerated the Outer Continental Shelf gas and oil exploration program by leasing two million acres on the OCS in 1974. That is twice the acreage leased during 1973, with another 1.4 million recently offered to bidders. The Ford Administration plans to lease 10 million acres on the OCS in 1975 - the equivalent of all acreage leased between enactment of the OCS Lands Act in 1953 and the start of accelerated leasing in 1974.

The Administration leased four oil shale tracts in Colorado and Utah during the last year to create an incentive for the commercial development of oil shale.

The Administration has leased 18 tracts in known geothermal resource areas this year for initial development and exploration purposes.

The Ford Administration is completing environmental impact and economic assessment studies to assist in active Federal leasing of coal resources in 1975.

The Ford Administration's fiscal 1975 energy research and development budget totals $2.3 billion, compared with about half that amount in the preceding year. This budget embraces nuclear fission and fusion, coal, oil, gas, oil shale, solar and geothermal energy development, energy conservation, and environmental matters.

We are speeding up nuclear fission and fusion research.

We are engaged in a major expansion in coal R&D - a five-fold increase from two years ago, including coal extraction and conversion into gas, liquids, or clean solids for final use.

We are demonstrating better secondary and tertiary oil recovery techniques. The Ford Administration wants to decontrol the price of oil recovered by secondary means, such as flooding wells with water, in order to stimulate production.

We are pursuing a major expansion of solar energy research - 10 times larger an effort than two years ago. FEA Administrator John Sawhill reports that the Government hopes to put several solar plants into operation by 1985. We are considering, he says, a billion-dollar R&D plan to harness the sun's rays as a source of power.

Research into geothermal energy production also has increased tenfold within the past two years.

Are we making progress with our efforts to increase supplies? Is there hope that we can end our dependence on foreign petroleum? Eric R. Zausner, FEA assistant administrator who is drafting a Project Independence blueprint to be submitted to the President, predicts that other energy supplies - notably oil and natural gas from the Outer Continental Shelf - might cut import requirements to zero by 1985.

Meantime, our best bet is energy saving. And you can be sure that if the President's program of voluntarism doesn't work that he will be back before Congress with an array of mandatory measures.

Project Independence lags, all out effort needed

Calendar changes

Effective December 1, the Food Stamp program will operate on a calendar month basis rather than a fiscal month basis.

In the past, recipients have purchased their food stamps between the 21st of one month and the 20th of the next month. Beginning December 1, recipients will purchase their stamps between the first day of the month and the last day of the month.

"We feel the calendar month will be less confusing for our food stamp clients, as well as merchants and others who are involved in the food stamp program," Welfare Commissioner Max M. Cole commented. "It will be a great advantage to the food stamp recipient to purchase his stamps at the same time of the month he receives his income and pays his bills."

For the convenience of the food stamp clients, during the transition period, October 21-November 30, the Good and Nutrition Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture has given permission for an extra one half month's allotment of food stamps to be sold to clients. These extra stamps may be purchased in each county anytime between October 21 - November 30.

"The extra stamps will be sold in addition to the regular monthly allotment of stamps," Commissioner Cole explained. "Any household eligible for food stamps for the month of November will be allowed food stamp issuance of 1 1/2 months during the period October 21-November 30."

He added that no December food stamps will be sold before December 1, 1974.

"If you have any questions about this new system, call your county welfare office," Commissioner Cole said.

UNICEF Does a World of Good

With a helping hand from a medical aid, this severely malnourished Mauritanian child manages to take a few steps. Medicines and high-protein food mixtures flown into drought and famine-stricken West Africa by UNICEF, give the spunky youngster a fighting chance to survive the disaster devastating eight African countries. Contributions to UNICEF Halloween activities will help the Children's Fund alleviate the threat of starvation for more of Africa's children. (UNICEF Photo by Massa Diabate)

For some children, Halloween is child's play. For others in the poorer countries of Africa, Asia and Latin America the fun this fall will be in deadly earnest.

Across the U.S.A., in homes and communities everywhere, children will celebrate "All Hallows' Eve" with parties and costumes, tricks and treats, ghosts and goblins and with UNICEF, the United Nations Children's Fund.

Through UNICEF their efforts to collect funds for the world's needy children will be transformed into material signs of help, hope, and health for some of the millions of children struggling to stay alive in the developing world. American children's evening of excitement, games and good deeds will become food for young Africans caught in their country's seven-year siege of drought and famine.

It will help provide insurance, in the form of Vitamin A capsules, against terrifying vitamin deficiency blindness for youngsters in war-torn Indochina. It will help supply clean-water wells to stop sickness in India, emergency aid to flooded and beleaguered Bangladesh, and a teacher, a school and education supplies for illiterate children of a Bolivian village. Through UNICEF, the Halloween fun of children here at home will mean a new lease on life for desperate children in countries around the world.

Help for these children can't come too soon. The same conditions making Americans pay 40 cents for a loaf of bread and over a half a dollar for a gallon of gasoline are turning the existence of children in already poverty-stricken nations into a nearly impossible feat. World-wide shortages of fuel, food and fertilizer have caused prices to soar. Global inflation is so severe that governments must trim their budgets, and social services for children and mothers are often the first to be cut.

Every day famine pushes its path further around the equator, threatening up to half a billion Third World children. These children face the most basic dangers to human life—malnutrition, disease, starvation and death. To alert nations to their extreme situation, UNICEF has, for the first time in its 28-year history, declared a State of Emergency for Children in the Developing World.

UNICEF already is shipping and distributing high-protein food and intravenous rehydration and feeding fluids to children and mothers in drought-stricken West Africa and Ethiopia. It is also supplying well-drilling equipment to these areas to provide desperately needed clean water for drinking. The Children's Fund can help governments establish nutrition programs, train parents and community leaders to increase local food production, and support other emergency child feeding projects. But UNICEF must find an additional $80 million in the next 12 to 15 months to meet the emergency needs.

It is fitting that the world's youngest and neediest should be helped by their peers here at home. On or around Oct. 31, children and young people will "Trick or Treat for UNICEF," ride bikes for UNICEF, arrange block parties, "hunger" banquets and even Bobby Riggs-Billie Jean King style tennis matches for UNICEF. Such activities will assume greater importance this fall as reports of world-wide child tragedy mount and the need for funds becomes increasingly apparent.

Last year over 34 million young people in 50 states and on military bases in Europe and Asia raised over $3 million at Halloween-time, having fun with a purpose, mixing magic with good will, making magic for mankind. This year they'll be out ringing doorbells again. They know Halloween's for children — all around the world.

UNICEF Halloween

Straw hat taking the place of tin cup, a Vietnamese child begs for money in the streets of Saigon. To aid the millions of children throughout the Indochina peninsula who must contend with post war conditions of poverty, disease, injury and malnutrition, UNICEF has launched the largest rehabilitation program in its history. Funds from UNICEF Halloween activities will help UNICEF provide medicines, teaching materials, training stipends, and facilities to help injured, orphaned and refugee children. (UNICEF Photo by Jacques Danois)

For All the World's Children

A first grader in Ikthori, India, waits for her lunch of UNICEF's CSM—a high-protein corn-soya milk mixture. School feeding projects in disadvantaged areas are part of India's UNICEF-assisted integrated child services program, now imperiled by skyrocketing inflation and food, fuel and fertilizer shortages. UNICEF's Halloween fund-raising activities will help provide the world's neediest youngsters with applied nutrition and clean water programs, improved health and sanitation facilities, and education reform. ## Halloween calendar

A number of activities have been planned for children trick or treating in the Hancock County area tonight. There will be a Spook House at 202 Keller Ave. in Bay St. Louis. The Spook House, sponsored by the Town Klowns, and will be haunted from 6 p.m. until—A costume contest for the "Best Chosen Costume" will be held at 8:30. Admission is free.

black dungeon and encounter every sort of monster and ghoul along the way. For another quarter, youngsters (and adults too) can see about 25 minutes of horror film clips in the movie room. Refreshments will be sold for those who can take it. The dungeon is in the Bay on Dunbar and Julia Streets. As a fitting wrapup to the Halloween festivities, the Gulf Coast Pony Club will sponsor a Halloween gymkhana at the Hancock County Fairgrounds in Bay St. Louis. All young riders under 18 years old may participate in the games and activities — all on horseback. All that is needed is a mount (any size and shape), a costume and $2 entry fee per class.

The Main Street United Methodist Church of Bay St. Louis will host this year's UNICEF drive Halloween night. The EYC youth group from Christ Episcopal Church and several youth groups from Baptist and other churches will meet at the Methodist Church's Fellowship Hall at 6 p.m. All children are invited to attend this worthwhile activity.

The children will be assigned to areas and given identification collection boxes, and will be accompanied by adults. Organizers say that the children will return about 7:30 or 8 p.m. and be treated to refreshments.

For those who would rather dance than trick or treat the St. Clare CYO is sponsoring a Halloween Dance tonight from 8 p.m. to midnight. St. Clare Parish Hall in Waveland is the place, music is by Pulllight and the dance is open to anyone from 13 to 19 years old. A donation of $2.50 each will get you in.

The Krewe of Triton Haunted Dungeon will creak open at 6 p.m. and stay open until the last scream dies out. For 50 cents admission any child brave enough can wander through the pitch

Drugs and your health

by John F. Russell, M.D.

SPEED KILLS! We've heard that phrase over and over until it has become accepted as a truism without even thinking about the meaning behind the words. On the highway in an automobile we can understand what is meant by "speed kills": in the area of drug abuse, the meaning is more elusive and therefore more difficult to understand.

First, what is speed? At one time this word referred specifically to methamphetamine, a methamphetamine. Now it covers all the so-called uppers, stimulants, diet pills, amphetamines. These are the drugs that "speed up" the body and mind. They actually do help one to work harder, run faster, do more. Much in the way a frightened person can run faster than he thought possible, or an angry person may fight and beat someone twice his size, so the body on "speed" brings power and energy from the hidden stores within, preparing it for "fight" or "flight."

At first appearance this may seem to be a great advantage...to be able to do far more than usual, and it is...at first. But how long can a body run at top speed before its parts wear out? How long can the heart pump two or three times as fast as normal before it simply stops? The human body is a marvelous mechanism, equipped with all sorts of safety devices and warning systems. Few of us can run very far before we are out of breath, heart pounding, with a "stitch" in our side.

The body is telling us to stop. We are overloading the system, the safety valve has warned us and we must rest before trying to go on. But the person on "speed" has no warning; the system is overridden by the medication; there is no safety valve. He keeps running because the amphetamine has called on the body to go faster, use more energy, bring on the emergency resources. Then suddenly there are no more resources, the body has used them all, and it stops. It is because of this and the fact that several athletes have simply dropped dead on the playing field from "speed" that it can truly be said that "SPEED KILLS."

Yet, that is not the only reason. The "speed freak" or heavy-user of amphetamines is actually dangerous. Chronic abuse of stimulants may cause bizarre personality changes, the most common being paranoia. The abuser feels persecuted, suspicious of everyone without reason; he is aggressive and frantically active. In that mental condition, he is "out to get you before you get him." Thus, the one ON speed may kill.

It is obvious that one cannot continue long abusing uppers before the body forces him in one way or another to stop. At the end of the high is the crash...irritability, exhaustion, severe depression. This then leads to a desire for more speed to get back to the high, to be once again stimulated, energetic, active...to get "up." It becomes a vicious circle and is difficult to break.

In the drug culture, where even the miserable junkie is acceptable, the speed freak is feared. He is violent and unpredictable and therefore, avoided. There is no question about it: SPEED KILLS!

THE DENIM IDEA

Durable, comfortable, and economical, no wonder denim is mother's first love when it comes to fabrics for her youngsters.

In spite of his tears, this Nigerian baby is a lucky youngster. He's getting a healthy start in life thanks to the care of trained medical auxiliaries like the one who comforts him. With the help of training stipends, medical supplies and equipment, made possible in part by UNICEF Halloween fund-raising, Nigeria's paramedics help compensate for the lack of doctors in rural areas by diagnosing and treating minor ailments and referring major ones to health centers where doctors are available. ## Civitan hosts double feature program

Area history will unfold for members of the Long Beach Civitan Club and their ladies at the monthly program meeting at the Long Beach Ramada Inn Monday night at 7:30 with the showing of the latest coast motion picture according to Raymond H. Canada, president of the group. The film is a documentary woven around the reenactment of the landing of Pierre Le Moyne, Sieur d'Iberville, which was a part of the 275th Anniversary celebration of the founding of the Biloxi Bay Colony.

Canada advised that in addition to the film there will be a program by Mrs. Marshall A. Glazebrook on SCORE (Service Corps of Retired Executives) and their forthcoming workshop November 20 at the Sheraton-Biloxi Motor Inn. Mrs. Glazebrook is a retired executive in the management consulting field and is one of the 25 volunteers who comprise the South Mississippi SCORE Chapter No. 130. SCORE counselors offer free professional advice to small business owners who request it, as well as advising those who contemplate going into business for themselves.

"The Executive Board feels that SCORE offers an important service to small businessmen and women which may be particularly needed now since the current economic stress will heighten competition in the marketplace," said Canada. He further said that in keeping with the Long Beach Civitan Club's policy of community service, the public is invited to attend the dinner meeting with its double feature program.

Anyone desiring further information and dinner reservations may call Canada at 864-8087 or T. D. Lee at 863-3543.

Echoes

Lt. and Mrs. Joel T. Hoffman have returned home after a two week visit. Mrs. Hoffman is the former Mary Faith Campion, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel F. Campion of Waveland. She and her husband are both First Lieutenants in the U. S. Air Force, stationed at K. I. Sawyer AFB in upper Michigan. While here, they all spent a week in Panama City Beach, Florida, where they were joined for a few days by Mrs. Campion's brother, Rev. Terrence W. Gress of Buffalo, N. Y.

Correction

Our Lady's Academy regrets that it incorrectly worded a portion of its statement of policy in last week's Echo. The advertisement should have read "... Our Lady's Academy does not offer a refuge for segregation," rather than "... a refuge for integration."

"W" Day open to high schoolers

Officials at Mississippi University for Women in Columbus have extended invitations to more than 15,000 high school junior and senior women throughout Mississippi and surrounding states—inviting them to view the campus during the annual "W" Day next month.

The Nov. 9 "W" Day program, designed to provide high school juniors and seniors an opportunity to investigate both the academic and social sides of the University, will stress academic information as well as entertainment. Activities will include open houses with academic departments, campus tours and a brief assembly during which "W" Day guests will meet student, faculty and administrative leaders. An informal meetings with all faculty members will be held after the assembly.

Lydia Hodges of Mantachie, president of the student association, will preside at the 10 a.m. welcoming assembly in the Hogarth Student Center. Following Miss Hodges' introductory remarks, Dr. Ann McAllister, dean of students; Dr. Harvey Craft, dean of academic affairs; and Dr. Jerre Cotfield, director of admissions and financial aid; will be available for conferences.

Other activities include performances by the Meh Ladies, the W's contemporary pop singing group, during a 12:30-1:30 p.m. luncheon, a theater production and a talent show.

Registration for "W" Day will be 8:30-10:30 a.m. in the Hogarth Student Center. Activities will conclude at 4 p.m.

Local chapter hosts Hukilau for regional Jr. Auxiliary meeting

Mrs. Walter Gex greets NANA national president Mrs. Marion Moor, national executive secretary Miss Martha Wise and Mrs. Nancy Lemon, Region IV director at the early arrivals

More than 250 women gathered at Diamondhead in Hancock County last week for a Region IV meeting of the National Association of Junior Auxiliaries.

The conference and workshop was hosted by the Bay St. Louis-Waveland chapter of the organization with Mrs. Claude Switzer serving as meeting chairman.

Mrs. Walter Gex III opened her Diamondhead home for an early arrivals party attended by a number of members representing 13 region chapters.

The day long event began with registration at 9 a.m. Tuesday morning followed by business sessions and a series of mini-workshops. Topics covered in the workshops included public relations, associates, teens, problems, drug abuse and special education.

The Hawaiian theme chosen for the affair was carried throughout the entire day with hostesses attired in colorful muumukus and a profusion of tropical plants and floral arrangements used throughout the meeting rooms. Tiered water fountains and imaginative table decorations created by the local members made the 1

Consul General raps Council of Churches

South African Consul General H. E. Martin, guest speaker at a recent meeting of the Gulf Coast Chapter National daughters of American Revolution in Gulfport, sharply rebuked World Council of Churches.

Martin said, "The World Council of Churches is to a large extent responsible for the propaganda apparatus of the terrorist and they are busy financing this movement to invade freedom loving countries and nations and murder at will."

Displaying headlines from several recent American newspapers selected at random, the Consul General said: "Sophisticated Russian military armaments" are pouring into East Africa. Somalia, Uganda and Tanzania have now acquired the latest Soviet Mig-fighter planes.

South Africa was described by the Consul General as a country of "beautiful natural resources, with the complexity of the different peoples."

The only industrialized country of all Africa, South Africa has almost "the most strategic point in the world," said Martins who added "all of the oil for the industrial world has to pass by the Cape of Good Hope."

"This country," declared Martin in referring to South Africa, "has succeeded in devising a political system wherein the white nation and the eight black nations can live at peace with one another and wherein the white nation will—and is—busy assisting the eight black nations to develop their own eight black countries toward ultimate independence."

Language barriers made for difficulty in communications in South Africa where each tribe has retained its independent dialect. "What I wish to emphasize," said Martin, "is that in South Africa because of our history and the character of the different nations, we have never exploited the black people, neither have we ever considered integration. It is our firm belief that the Zulu, the Xhosa, the Swazi or any one of the other eight Black Nations in South Africa are separate people, the same as the Germans, the French, the Italians, the Hollanders or the Belgians in Europe, and each is proud of its nationhood, its heritage and its own language."

Describing South Africa as the "treasure house of the world", the Consul General said South Africa has the world's largest deposits of gold, diamonds, platinum, uranium, coal, iron ore, chromite, manganese, asbestos, antimony and corundum. He said South Africa is mining 30 non-metallic minerals and also 20 metallic ones, including almost every mineral required to sustain a modern industrial economy. "These", Martin pointed out, "include minerals necessary for the building and steel industries." He estimated there are sufficient deposits of manganese to last for at least five centuries and said, "South Africa's gold mines now produce over $65 billion worth of gold — approximately three-quarters of the free world's total production."

Expressing faith in the prosperity and future peace of South Africa, Martins said, "Let me point out South Africa has only five percent of Africa's population and about four percent of its land mass, yet South Africa yields two-thirds of Africa's industrial output, generates more than 50 percent of its electric power and has 30 percent of its railroads. This, I believe, is due to the enterprise of its people and to the country richly endowed in natural resources."

Three sets of illustrated books were presented by the Consul General to the Gulf Coast chapter. These books included "South Africa, a Visual History 1972" by Visual Publications of Johannesburg, and "South Africa, Land of Sunshine Holiday Paradise" by Odo Willscher and Wilhelm Eigener. One set of books will be presented to the Long Beach Public Library by Mrs. Dale Billman, a new member of the Gulf Coast Chapter, D.A.R. and a transfer from Illinois.

Prior to the social hour reports were given on chapter activities including the president's message read by Mrs. Lenore Brann and stressing the theme as long as America is good it will be great. Mrs. Lucille Thompson read the National Defense Message.

Mrs. James Q. Coker, chaplain of the chapter lead a memorial service for honorary president general, Mrs. Eleanor Spicer, also local member, Miss Laura Rankin and for the late Tom Garner, whose wife is a member of D. A. R. of long standing.

Constitution Week activities were reported jointly by Mrs. Morris of Gulfport and Mrs. Nunez C. Pilet of Bay St. Louis.

Homemakers meet

Bay St. Louis Extension Homemakers Club met Thursday, October 17, at the Agricultural Center with Mrs. Emile Manieri, president, conducting the business session.

A handmade table cloth with a Christmas design was displayed by Mrs. Sam Nigiazzo.

Mrs. Cleveland Wyatt presented the Club with a handmade quilt top which will be quilted by the members.

Mrs. Manieri discussed the food values of soybeans.

Following the meeting a social hour was held with Mrs. Pauline Reid and Mrs. Nigiazzo as hostesses.

USM cartoon exhibit termed a solid success

The University of Southern Mississippi's traveling editorial cartoon exhibit, which now includes "the Watergate Collection," has been booked up through 1975 and requests are mounting.

Informally titled "Them Damn Pictures," the cartoons were furnished to USM by the American Association of Editorial Cartoonists. The current exhibit contains the original work of 75 cartoonists from all parts of the United States and Canada.

Mississippi Room librarian Henry Simmons, in charge of the exhibit, explained that Southern circulates the cartoons for one year, then they become a part of the permanent collection at the university.

First displayed at Michigan State University in 1968, the exhibit has been "a solid success," according to Simmons. It is available to journalism schools, libraries and other institutions.

Although several universities collect editorial cartoons, Simmons said, USM is the only school in the nation that circulates the cartoons in behalf of the editorial cartoonists' association. Southern now has the largest known collection of original editorial cartoons in the country.

Simmons said the recent acquisitions, mainly dealing with the Watergate-related scandals, may well include the sharpest political satire of the century. Cartoonist Eddie Germano, vice president of the cartoonists' association, agrees. "Probably at no time in the history of our country has the importance of the editorial cartoon been so profoundly revealed," he said in an article about the collection.

The exhibition title derives from a remark by William Marcy Tweed, notorious boss of the Tammany Hall political machine in New York in the 1860's and 1870's. Aroused by Thomas Nast's celebrated assault on him in the pages of "Harper's Weekly," Tweed thundered:

"I don't care what the newspapers print about me. Most of my constituents can't read anyway. But stop them damn pictures."

USM's cartoon exhibit is currently on display at Judson College in Marion, Ala., through Oct. 31. Next stop is the University of Alaska in Fairbanks.

Holiday Inn has its own university and about 5,000 students a year are expected to attend courses on hotel management.

SSC band to play for Tulane

St. Stanislaus Band Boosters Club met Monday night in the Band hall with Victor Frankiewicz, president, conducting the business session.

It was announced Stanislaus band had been invited to participate in Tulane's Homecoming parade Saturday in New Orleans. The group will also be guests at the same game Saturday night.

Brother Anton thanked John Wilkerson, concession chairman, and parents for their help at the concession stands during the home games.

A social hour followed the business session.

The next meeting was scheduled for November 25 at 7:30 p.m. in the Band Hall.

Anniversary flower show is planned

The Heidelberg Chrysanthemum Show will be staged November 9 from 2 until 8 p.m. and November 10 from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. in the Heidelberg Community Center.

This is the 25th Anniversary Show and much planning has been done to make it outstanding. Growers have plantings in their landscaping and will open these and their beds Sunday, November 3. These are designated by lawn signs.

This show and plantings have attracted flower lovers for 25 years as national and state recognition has been given on many occasions.

RECEIVES SCHOLARSHIP

Jay L. Reed, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Reed of 104 Warwick St., Long Beach, is the recipient of an Air Force ROTC scholarship at the University of Southern Mississippi. Reed is a sophomore at Southern majoring in accounting.

Mr. and Mrs. William A. Johnson Jr. Bay St. Louis announce the birth of their first child, a son, William A. II, September 20 at Gulfport Memorial Hospital. He weighed eight pounds, six ounces.

Mrs. Johnson is the former Arlene Dahl of Bay St. Louis.

FIRST YACHT CLUB

The first yacht club in the South was formed at Pass Christian in 1860. The town of Pass Christian was named for Christian L'Admirer, who discovered the channel in 1699. It was the state's first resort town.

Legal notices

NOTICE TO CREDITORS
 CAUSE NO. 12,439
 Letters of Administration on the Estate of David M. Dahlgren, Deceased, were granted to the undersigned by the Chancery Court of Hancock County, Mississippi, on the 14th day of October, 1974; therefore, notice is hereby given, requiring all persons having claims against said estate to have same proved and registered by the Clerk of said Court within six months from the date, and failure to do so will bar the claim. This, the 17th day of October, A. D. 1974.

Mrs. Bonnie Preddy Dahlgren, Administratrix of the Estate of David M. Dahlgren, Deceased.
 F. G. & C. G. Ginn, Attorneys for Estate Bay St. Louis, Miss.

NOTICE TO BIDDERS
 Written sealed bids will be received for the Board of Trustees of Pearl River Junior College at the office of the Business Manager until Friday, November 1, 1974, 10:00 A.M. for Welding, Industrial Electricity, Building Trades, Auto Mechanics, & Metal Trades.

Such items as are more specifically described in Specifications and Bid Form available from the Business Manager, Pearl River Junior College, Poplarville, Mississippi 39370.

At the above time, bids will be opened and publicly read. The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids and waive any formalities.

For the Board of Trustees,
 M. R. White, President
 Pearl River Junior College
 10-17, 10-24, 10-31, 11-7-74

INVITATION TO BID
 Sealed proposals for an "Addition to the Gymnasium at Charles B. Murphy School", located at Pearlport, Mississippi, will be received by the Hancock County School Board. Said proposals will be received in the Office of the Superintendent, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, until 10 A.M. November 4, 1974. Any bid received after the closing time will be returned unopened.

Only qualified General Contractors may secure from the office of John M. Kelly & Associates, Architects & Engineers, 115 East Beach, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi, complete sets of Contract Documents upon deposit of $100.00 (Fifty Dollars) for each set. Contract Documents may also be obtained at the School Superintendent's office, 112 Main Street, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi.

The full deposit will be refunded to those who submit a bona fide bid. Said refund will be made only for complete documents in good condition, returned within ten (10) days after bid opening. No bid may be withdrawn for at least thirty (30) days after the actual closing time for receipt of bids.

Each proposal must be accompanied by a certified check or bid bond, certified or issued by a Bank or Bonding Company in the State of Mississippi in an amount equal to at least 5 percent of the amount of the bid, and made payable without condition, to the Board, as a guarantee that the bidder, if awarded the Contract, will promptly execute the Contract Documents. A 100 percent performance bond shall be required.

Contractors proposing to perform work amounting to $25,000.00 or more must hold current valid Contractor's Certificate of Responsibility and Contractor's License. The Board of Trustees reserves the right to reject any and all bids and to waive any informalities incident hereto.

Bid documents are on file in the Superintendent's office for public review.

KNIT-KNACKS CLASSES

Learn new and better techniques for sewing with knit fabric. Mrs. Norine Barnes, Hancock County Extension Home Economist, is presenting a night class on Sewing Techniques for Modern Knits.

This is a lecture-demonstration series, with participants trying out techniques at home. The only supplies you will need are a notebook and pencil. There will be a pre-registration fee of $1.50 per person for this series. This fee will cover the cost of demonstration supplies.

The series includes approximately 10 hours of instruction in five classes of two hours taught at weekly intervals.

The classes are taught in garment units, with the outline as follows:

Class I - Basic fabric

selection, cutting and simple pull over;

Class II - Pattern alterations, construction of pants;

Class III - Blouses and shells;

Class IV - Skirts, gored and straight;

Class V - Jacket and vest.

This series, as are all Extension sponsored classes, is open to any interested individual. We request your help in informing others of this class.

Please mail pre-registration fee of $1.50 to Hancock County Extension Home Economist, P. O. Box 112, Bay St. Louis, Mississippi 39520.

Over 400 million persons suffer from trachoma. For 5 cents the United Nations Children's Fund can provide antibiotic ointment to save one of them from blindness.

Opium poppy use is studied

A University of Mississippi professor is currently involved in an effort to encourage poppy growers to replace the opium poppy with a different species containing a chemical to make codeine. Dr. Norman J. Doorenbos, chairman of Pharmacognosy at Ole Miss, recently participated in a World Health Organization Conference in Washington, D. C. regarding the opium poppy and potential substitutes. About 20 international authorities attended the session.

More than 140 species of poppy exist but the only one which produces opium is the opium poppy. Although the most likely substitute, Papaver bracteatum, does not produce morphine as does the opium poppy, synthetic drugs are available to replace morphine.

"However, there is no source for codeine other than opium poppy--except for the Papaver bracteatum," Dr. Doorenbos said. Principal uses of codeine are as a cough suppressant and a pain reliever. Information gathered at the Washington meeting will be used by the World Health Organization and the U.S. Department of Agriculture in attempts to convince poppy growers to make the substitution.

But the experts are aware difficulties will be encountered. "We're asking them to give up a plant which is economically profitable," he said.

co-chairmen, anticipate the biggest auction in the station's history and are hoping to top last year's record-breaking total of more than $370,000. Funds raised from the auction comprise one-third of Channel 12's operating budget and are used to continue the development of WYES, Louisiana's flagship public television station.

During the nine day Auction Showboat thousands of items will be shown and described to viewers who can then place bids by calling the station.

Viewers outside of the local calling area for New Orleans may bid by using one of the toll free Watts lines: Louisiana residents dial 1-800-452-7014; Mississippi Gulf Coast residents dial 1-800-535-8743.

Auction area chairmen from Covington, the Gulf Coast, Houma, Morgan City, New Iberia, Ponchatoula, Stidell, and Thibodaux, report that hundreds of dollars in merchandise has been donated to the 1974 Showboat by their local businesses and individuals.

These items include art works, antiques, appliances, boats, cars, jewelry, sporting odds, trips, wearing apparel, and gift certificates for everything from 1,000 gallons of gas to dinners at your favorite restaurants. All merchandise except antiques, art, and celebrity items, is brand new.

A number of Big Board items, each worth $1,000 or more, will be offered for bids throughout the Auction. They include Cybis porcelain, swimming pool, videotape recorder, a stamp collection, name-a-plane, and a birthday bathtub.

Highlights of the eighth Bid-by-Phone Auction include Art Sunday, set for November 3, featuring fabulous works of art donated by artists, galleries and private collectors; and a night full of international flavor, featuring ancient artifacts, foreign fashions and trills, terrific trips to ports of call and tantalizing tidbits.

Persons wishing to donate items may do so by calling the Auction office at 504-486-5511, Monday through Friday, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Mississippi at bottom on highway official selection

Forty-nine of the nation's 50 states select their highway administrative officials by a method other than by popular vote. Mississippi is the only state holding to the public election method.

The question of election versus appointment of highway officials has been clearly resolved in favor of appointment.

Some 46 states appoint highway officials. All 46 provide for appointment by the governor, with 33 of the 46 requiring confirmation by legislative bodies.

Of the other four states, only Mississippi clings to the public vote method of selecting its state highway commissioners. Two of the four provide for selection of highway officials by the Legislature; and the fourth operates under an executive commission, made up of the governor, the attorney general, and the state comptroller.

Public administration authorities who recommend appointment of highway administrative officials suggest that highway administration is an executive function, and properly falls under the control of the executive branch. They claim that a governor cannot be charged with the responsibility for the overall functioning of the executive branch under the popular vote method of selection of officials and further suggest that such division within the executive branch leads to confusion and disorder.

Mississippi law provides for a three-man highway commission each chosen by electors of the three highway districts.

Nurses Assn. holds conference

The Nurses' Association of the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists will hold a fall section conference, November 8 at the International American Motor Inn, 2691 Severn Avenue in New Orleans.

According to Mrs. Patsy Schmidt, R.N., Louisiana vice chairman, N.A.A.C.O.G., Mississippi obstetrical supervisors and O.B.-GYN. nurses are invited to attend the program which is scheduled from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

Registration information may be obtained by writing Mrs. Schmidt, 543 Hyman Drive, Jefferson, Louisiana 70122.

the district which he represents.

The commissioners then appoint a director for the administration of the state highway department.

Under the present system there is the danger that a commissioner may be elected only on the basis of his political appeal and ability to influence voters, with little or no regard to his ability to administer a multi-million-dollar highway operation.

There appears to be a greater probability of selection of experienced, qualified commissioners if appointed rather than elected.

Mississippi needs the benefit of professional planning and administration of the state's highway afforded by an appointed highway commission.

Long Beach High Homecoming

Long Beach High School's Homecoming festivities moved into the streets last Friday afternoon following a pep rally at the school. Class floats, school bands, and cars and trucks filled with enthusiastic supporters—all paraded down Jeff Davis Avenue.

That evening before the Long Beach-Harrison Central football game at Bearcat Stadium, Superintendent Thomas L. Reeves crowned Sandra Bosarge as the Homecoming Queen. She and her eight maids were escorted to their seats.

At halftime the Long Beach High School Band honored the Class of '61 by playing a medley of hits from the early 60's.

The Bearcats did their part to ensure that the homecoming was a success by beating Harrison Central High.

Saturday night the homecoming festivities concluded with a dance that lasted until midnight.

Manpower takes on new dimensions

The "job" business has come a long way from the standing-in-line-and-hoping era, and Mississippi may prove to be one of the most innovative states in implementing new manpower-training concepts.

The clout comes from the U. S. Department of Labor, using millions of dollars appropriated by Congress for CETA—the Comprehensive Employment Training Act. But the finesse is left up to the individual state.

The key man in Mississippi is Dr. Milton Baxter, executive director of Governor William Waller's Office of Education and Training, which coordinates all manpower-training programs funded through the Governor's office.

"We're here to help people increase their income," said Dr. Baxter, "and CETA gives us all kinds of ways to do that. Thanks to CETA, manpower training is taking on new dimensions. It's cutting across all kinds of agency lines, which is good."

For example, the E&T office is sub-contracting with the State Health Department, the Mississippi Employment Service, junior-college programs and other entities to put the many facets of CETA into a workable package.

Basically, CETA is an individualized approach to manpower training, designed to take each individual and give him a complete examination and assessment—physical, emotional and mental, as well as work skills.

"Then we design a program to meet his specific needs," says Dr. Baxter. "A program which eventually should put him into unsubsidized employment, so he can be a wage earner—a breadwinner—completely on his own."

Admittedly, this individualization will be difficult and costly.

"If we could mass-produce wage earners, it would be extremely easy," Dr. Baxter said, "but how can you do that?"

Prime target groups of CETA are the underemployed as well as the unemployed.

Some 30 special projects which sponsors hope will meet the requisites already have been filed with the Governor's Office of Education and Training, and four have been approved for funding, with many of the others still under review.

The man assigned to oversee these "specials", Helmon Johnson, said the applications are from every section of the state.

The project which has attracted the most attention thus far is a $30,000 grant to a group described traditionally, by newsmen and others, as the most powerful organization in Mississippi, above the legislature itself—the Mississippi Association of Supervisors.

V.A. News

EDITOR'S NOTE: Veterans and their families are asking thousands of questions concerning the benefits their Government provides for them through the Veterans Administration. Below are some representative queries. Additional information may be obtained at any VA office.

Q—I am the unmarried widow of a World War II veteran who never used his GI home loan entitlement. Am I eligible for this Veterans Administration benefit?

A—Yes. Unmarried widows of veterans of World War II and later periods have been eligible for this benefit since passage of the Veterans Housing Act of 1970.

Q—Does the Veterans Administration reduce a veteran's monthly compensation when there are increases in Social Security benefits?

A—No. The agency does not count any income against compensation for service-connected disabilities, including Social Security payments. However, income is counted in determining pensions of veterans with nonservice-connected disabilities.

(St. Stanislaus Photo) Bay High running back Mark Thomas is met at the line of scrimmage by St. Stanislaus middle linebacker Louie Negrotto (38) after taking a handoff from Tiger quarterback Mike Magee (10). Other Rock defenders in the picture are Brent Logan (82), Danny Ray (76), Monty Elchos (34), and David Depreo (52). Also in the play are Tigers David Landen (76) and Vernon Powell (86).

(St. Stanislaus Photo) Stanislaus running back Pat Labat (42) looks for running room last Friday night. In Rock-A-Chaw stadium as Tiger defenders Vernon Powell (86), Chris Johnson (41), and James Fine (60) come up fast to break up the play. Bay High won the inter-city rivalry 21-6.

Long Beach wins homecoming, 35-6

Rumors that the Long Beach High "Bearcats" have rolled over and died are greatly exaggerated. Friday night the Bearcats showed their homecoming crowd that they were very much alive as they demolished Harrison Central 35-6.

For the Red Rebels of Harrison Central, the game started off on a bad note and got worse as the game progressed. Robin Morris returned the opening kickoff 90 yards for a Long Beach touchdown. James DiLorenzo's PAT was good, and the Bearcats led 7-0.

The second Long Beach score came midway through the first quarter, following a Harrison Central fumble at their own six yard line. Long Beach was pushed back to the 15, but DiLorenzo came in to kick a 32 yard field goal and give Long Beach a 10-0 first quarter lead.

On the second play of the second quarter, Albert Snow, who had been held to -5 yards rushing in the first quarter, scored from the ten. The PAT was wide to the right and Long Beach led 16-0.

Long Beach scored again in the second quarter when Jim Christy ran 32 yards on a reverse, but the conversion attempt failed.

In the third quarter, Long Beach was faced with a fourth-and-two situation when the ball was centered to Albert Snow. The Red Rebels rushed in to block DiLorenzo's punt only to find Snow 25 yards away with a first down at the Rebel 18. On the next play from scrimmage, Tommy McKay passed to Jimmy Nelson for the score and a 28-0 lead.

The rest of the third quarter and midway through the fourth quarter was a study in frustration for Harrison Central. Following the Long Beach touchdown, they drove to the five but lost the ball on a fumble. Long Beach was forced to punt from its own endzone, but another Rebel fumble gave the Bearcats the ball at their own 39. Then Long Beach drove through the disheartened Harrison Central defense to the 15 before a missed field goal gave the ball to the Rebels back at their own 20.

In the fourth quarter, Long Beach drove 47 yards in nine running plays for their final score. Snow got the touchdown on an eight yard run, and Tommy McKay's PAT was good for a 35-0 lead.

Harrison Central scored late in the game after Thomas Griffing intercepted an errant Long Beach pass at the Rebel 48. After being pushed back ten yards on a quarterback sack, the Rebels drove 62 yards in seven plays with James Hall scoring from three yards out. Harrison Central's PAT was good, but a penalty nullified the kick, and the ensuing kick was blocked.

The Big Red Band from Harrison provided an outstanding halftime show that brought the fans to their feet, and Long Beach Band presented a medley of hits from the 60's to honor their Class of '61.

Magee and company crush Stanislaus 21-6

Magee and Company, namely the Bay High Tigers, ran over the St. Stanislaus Rock-A-Chaws last Friday night in their traditional rivalry at Stanislaus Stadium by the score of 21-6.

Magee was the iron man of the night as he scored two of the Tiger touchdowns, passed for the other TD and kicked the three extra points. Magee completed 12 out of 17 passes for 161 yards.

St. Stanislaus got on the scoreboard in the first quarter when Brent Logan recovered a Tiger fumble on the Tiger 43 yard line and returned it to the 15. The Rocks scored in three plays with the touchdown coming on an eight yard pass from quarterback Art Scafide to Pat Labat. The two point conversion attempt failed and Stanislaus held a 6-0 lead with nine minutes to go in the first period. From then on the Tigers dominated the game.

With 6:00 left in the second quarter, Magee got his first score of the night on a four yard keeper play. Magee kicked the extra point to give Bay High a 7-6 lead which was never threatened.

Magee passed to Mac McDonald for 12 yards and the Tigers second TD with just one minute to go in the first half. Magee again added the extra point from placement giving the Tigers a 14-6 halftime lead.

With 3:37 to go in the third quarter Magee got his second TD of the night on a five yard run and once again he added the extra point from placement to end the scoring, making the score 21-6.

The Rocks stopped a Tiger scoring threat late in the fourth quarter when they held the Tigers for four downs stopping them at the Stanislaus one-yard line.

The Tigers, now 3-4 for the season, will travel to George County to take on the George County Rebels next Friday night.

The Rocks, 3-4, will travel to Pass Christian next Friday night to play the Pass Christian Pirates in a Pascagoula River Conference game.

Vancleave extends Hawks loss record

By Edward Favre

The Vancleave Bulldogs defeated the Hancock North Central Hawks 28-0 in a Pascagoula River Conference football game last Friday night.

Two Vancleave players, Willie Jackson and Franky Williams, scored all four touchdowns for the Warriors, and Bill Brady added all four extra points from placement.

Jackson got his first TD in the first quarter on a 20 yard run. His second TD came in the third quarter on a two yard run.

Williams got his first points in the game early in the fourth quarter on a six yard run and his second TD later in the period on a five yard run.

The Hawks were held to 36 yards rushing and 85 yards passing. They fumbled four times and lost the ball each time.

The Hawks, now 1-7 for the season, will host Pearl River Central next Friday night at Hawk Stadium at 7:30 p.m.

Parents as well as students were swarming over the campus of Christ Episcopal Day School Saturday, observing and participating in the school's annual Field Day.

In addition to a number of challenging and interesting field events for the students, there were special events for the parents - and on these occasions the field was crowded. It was a rare treat to see Dads hopping along in the sack race, one diving to the ground in an attempt to be the first to get his nose across the finish line. The mothers did a pretty good job in the three-legged race, too.

The day started with the regular flag raising ceremony practiced daily at Christ Episcopal Day School.

followed by the elementary football team demonstrating a typical warm-up session. The fifth and sixth grade girls went through a tumbling routine and then it was "off to the races!"

There was a football shuttle relay, followed by a high school sack race. Then came the kindergartners with their 25-yard dash, with Haviland Wallace winning the girls' event, and G. J. Carter and James Hennessey lying for first place in the boys' race.

Virtually everybody participated in the 100-yard dash, grades one through twelve, with winners including Scott McDonald, Tricia Hennessey, Walter Billups, Peter Kelly, Chris Rawlings, Leigh Anderson, Shawn Hennessey, Cissy Hamilton, Cliff Northrop, Catherine Hennessey, Ryan Vicknair, Leslie McNair, John Fahnestock, Christal Spencer, Roland Weeks, Jackie Anderson, Edgar Santa Cruz, Regina Castelin, and Tom Fitzpatrick.

As usual, the younger set - nursery and kindergarten children - stole the show with the obstacle course they ran, with everybody from each group participating.

Then came the Bronco Relay for first graders, the Hoop Relay for third graders, and the high school students running a 200-yard shuttle relay. The seventh and eighth grade Orange Race brought gales of laughter from onlookers and participants, with Christal Spencer and Ginny Vegas taking the honors for the junior high, and Becky Montgomery and Mary Margaret Morse winning the senior high event.

All together there were some 18 or 20 events providing entertainment for students, their parents and friends - a beautiful day in the sun, featuring fun fellowship and lots of exercise!

December 31 is deadline

A. E. Barksdale, Chairman of the Mississippi Real Estate Commission has announced that December 31, 1974, is the deadline for licensees to renew their real estate licenses.

The Real Estate Brokers License Act of 1964 requires that anyone failing to renew their license by December 31 of each year be required to retake the examinations. In the case of a real estate broker that did not renew by the deadline, the broker would be required to first pass the salesman's examination before retaking the examination for broker's license.

Any licensee failing to receive a renewal application can obtain an application by contacting James D. Hobson, Jr., Administrator, Mississippi Real Estate Commission, 505 Woodland Hills Building, Jackson, Mississippi 39216.

The result of childhood protein malnutrition is more than a day, a month or a year of hunger pains. It's a lifetime of stunted physical growth, low work output, premature aging and reduced life span. By assisting nutrition programs in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East, UNICEF helps prevent these crippling effects of hunger in millions of children.

Bream, sunfish limits amended

The Mississippi State Game and Fish Commission passed the following regulations and public orders at its regular meeting Oct. 8.

Effective Nov. 1, 1974, the commission amended its bag limit on bream, goggle-eye and all other sunfish not to exceed 100 per day. It was further stipulated that the aggregate daily limit of all kinds shall be 100 per day with the possession limit not exceeding two days bag limit.

The commission passed the following orders in connection with the 1974-75 hunting season.

Be it ordered that it is prohibited to hunt, take, or kill any game animal, furbearing animal or game bird from any motorized vehicle or boat with the motor attached except for squirrels and for waterfowl as prescribed by federal regulations.

It shall be unlawful to take spotted fawns during any season.

Be it ordered, as prescribed by federal migratory bird regulations, that there be an open season for hunting common crows with firearms and bow and arrow as follows: Open season: from the first Saturday in November through the last day of February next following.

Bag and possession limit: none.

Hunting methods: the use of mouth calls and electrically or mechanically operated sound reproducing devices and decoys is allowed for hunting crows. No federal or state permit shall be required for the control of common crows when found committing or about to commit depredations or nuisances as defined under the federal migratory bird regulations depredation order.

Ten cents will buy a bag of potato chips—or the vaccine to protect ten children from smallpox...A dollar collected for UNICEF could buy a stethoscope...$35 could buy a year's supply of supplementary drugs for a mother and child health center.

Pass bicycle race

New Orleans club makes clean sweep

The second annual Pass Christian Bicycle Race was held last Sunday under the sponsorship of the Pass Christian Jaycees and the Gulf Coast Wheelers, a local cycling club.

Riders from the Gus Betat Racing Club, representing New Orleans' oldest bicycle shop, went home with all the Senior Division prizes except for Brad Crull, ninth-grade student at Coast Episcopal High, Pass Christian, who took first prize in the Junior Division.

Hardest fought and closest of all races was that for riders 31 years old and over. Only seconds separated the contestants as they crossed the finish line. Fastest time was clocked in the Senior Division with speeds of 35 mph reached at some points in the race.

Races on the two-and-a-half mile course were for distances of 36 miles for Seniors, 12 miles for Juniors, and four races of 5 miles each.

Pet show winner almost a casualty

A snail has won a best-kept pet competition despite being "attacked" by a rival contestant.

The snail was entered in the Toton, Nottinghamshire, England, contest but a dog, also competing, mistook it for a dainty morsel and it took all the skill of Les Sutton, of the Royal Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, to repair its shell with adhesive tape.

Amateur Bicycle League of America racing rules were observed.

Spectators enjoying the races had a beautiful day, with a picnic at Pass Christian Memorial Park a highlight.

Steve Kohl, Jr., chairman of the Race committee, said, "We've all enjoyed this race even more than last year's, and I've already started planning next year's events. I hope to see as many people here as we had this year. Over $250 worth of prizes will certainly attract many contestants to next year's races."

Race Winners:

Coast alumni sought for Homecoming event

Mississippi College alumni from the Bay St. Louis area have been issued a special invitation to attend the annual Homecoming Day activities planned for Saturday, November 2.

"We have a full day of activities planned for Homecoming this year," said Dr. F. D. Hewitt, director of alumni affairs and coordinator for the day, "and we hope a lot of our alumni from the Bay St. Louis area will come and be with us."

Alumni meetings and functions will dominate the day-long program, including the annual alumni banquet, class reunions, election of alumni officers and the naming of the "Alumnus of the Year" and "Order of the Arrows" awards.

A Homecoming parade through downtown Clinton and a Student Variety Show on the patio of the B. C. Rogers Student Center will highlight afternoon activities.

The annual Alumni Buffet is set for 5 p.m. in the Women's Gymnasium, followed by the Homecoming football game between the Choctaws and the University of North Alabama at 7 p.m. on Robinson Field.

The Queen and her Royal Court will be presented during the halftime ceremonies, with the crowning by Dr. Lewis Nobles, president of the college.

New TOPS group starts

Fat, chubby, plump—these are all ugly words to those who have excess weight on them. If you're one of them and are interested in losing weight, come and meet with others who have a similar problem.

A new TOPS chapter is being organized for this area. A preliminary meeting will be held November 7 at 7 p.m. at Hancock General Hospital, 725 Dunbar Ave., Bay St. Louis in the conference room. For more information, call 492-2827 after 6 p.m.

BWYC Backwash

HALL OF FAME—Captain Peter A. Morrill, former Vice-Commodore and Race Committee chairman of BWYC, has recently been inducted into the Inter-Collegiate Yacht Racing Association Hall of Fame. Capt. Morrill, a 1952 graduate of the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, was head sailing coach at the Academy during the early 1960's. He has contributed greatly to the ICYRA in the areas of safety and scheduling.

CLUB IMPROVEMENTS—Vice-commodore Walter Gehrke has been very busy engineering some much needed repairs to the Club's interior during the time it was closed for vacation.

MONEY CORSAGE—The ladies of the Auxiliary are selling tickets for a delightful novelty during the next several weeks—a corsage designed with 25 crisp one dollar bills. Tickets may be purchased from any of the members or at the Club. Drawing will be held at the Christmas party on December 21.

LADIES AUXILIARY—Friday, the Ladies Auxiliary Board of Governors will hold their monthly meeting at 6:30 p.m. The General Membership Meeting of the Ladies Auxiliary will take place Tuesday, at 5 p.m.

TEA—The Ladies Auxiliary will host a tea for yacht club members Wednesday, from 2 to 4 p.m.

BAIL THE BILGE—Saturday, will be a great night of Bailing the Bilge with hosts Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Trapani, Mr. and Mrs. John Hill, Mr. and Mrs. Donald de la Reguera, and Mrs. Virginia Miller.

SAILING BANQUET—

Trophies for the season's races will be presented at the annual Sailors' Banquet November 16, at 7 p.m. Reservations must be made in advance. The banquet is open to all BWYC members.

JUNIOR DANCE—The next Junior Dance will be at the Club November 23, with music by The Family Underground.

FROSTBITE REGATTA—Pass Christian Yacht Club will host its annual Buddy Beyer Memorial Frostbite Regatta next weekend, beginning Friday with the long distance races from New Orleans to Pass Christian at 8 a.m., and from Gulfport to Pass Christian at 1 p.m. Saturday, registration begins at 8:30 a.m., with Skippers' Meeting for One Design at 9:45. Start of the first race in One Design Classes will be at 11, with the second race scheduled for 2:30. The third race will be Sunday at 11.

In the next 6 seconds, 12 children will be born in the world's developing countries. Of those 12, two will die early, five will never go to school and only two will complete the elementary grades. All will know disease and hunger, and all but two will be condemned for life to hard labor at the lowest level of poverty. There are more than 1,100 million children in the developing world today. For millions of these youngsters UNICEF's programs of nutrition, health and education assistance will provide hope for the future in the midst of despair.

For the price of two Air Force fighter bombers, UNICEF can provide the vaccine to protect 226 million children from tuberculosis.

Anyone for three million volts?

The University of Mississippi has a three million volt item for rent—to qualified industrial users, that is!

The particle accelerator, which is used for research purposes, generates radiation not normally available. "In fact," said Dr. Abbey Cullen, chairman of Astronomy and Physics, "it will generate more radiation than any other device within a 300 mile radius. An industrial user would have to go to Dallas or St. Louis to find one."

Dr. Cullen is director of the accelerator facility and a member of the inter-departmental Radiation Research Committee which is offering the accelerator to industrial users.

"This accelerator can be used for actual production. It is similar to machines used industrially to vulcanize rubber, treat plastics, and sterilize medical and pharmaceutical supplies," explained Dr. Cullen. "We want industry to know this item is capable of doing commercial jobs, that it can process commercial—quantities—on a production line basis."

By L. S. (Doc) Elliott

No one could complain about the weather the past week. It has been beautiful with no rain. All kinds of fish have been caught, both salt and fresh water. Still flounders, speckles, white trout, ground mullets, etc. are being caught down by Bayou Caddy and down the other way toward Cedar Point.

Fishing out in the marshes has been excellent. They were mostly specks and reds.

The specks were hitting all kinds of plugs and Shad Rigs. Of course live shrimp predominated. According to old timers specks are running exceptionally large.

Green trout (Bass) have been caught most everywhere on surface and underwater baits as well as live shrimp. The bass are running larger and striking with a vim.

The tinge in the air recently has made a hunter's temperature go sky high. Won't be long now fellows until you will be out after ducks. The season opens on Nov. 9th, next week.

Among the annual hunters who will be there are John Ristoph, Cliff Comeaux, Luke Elliott and August Rauxet. The trip has been cut and dried for next week, you can bet your bottom dollar. The goose season is already open. They too might be on the firing line.

Three ole time fishermen are Clyde Bergdon, John Eckendorff and Alvin Meyer. All three are retired and do any kind of fishing. They have a home in Waveland and go fishing on every occasion. Were fishing off the seawall the other day. Catching them, too.

Gerald Freeman was telling me of the big flounders he has been catching down near the rock pile at Bayou Caddy. Gerald said it is easy to get 'em. All he uses is a Shad rig. No shrimp attached. Or dead shrimp, fishing on the bottom, is a deadly bait right now.

Remember this: One of our best fishermen was Bob Genin. His motto was: when catching fish, don't leave them. The grass may not be greener on the other side. Most fishermen make this mistake.

Assistance to commercial shrimpers having difficulty in completing application forms for SBA loans will be available from the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission, according to an announcement by Director J. Burton Angelle.

Angelle stated that in an effort to be of as much assistance as possible to the commercial shrimpers, personnel of the Louisiana Wildlife and Fisheries Commission will be stationed at several commission facilities located throughout the coastal areas to provide this service. He said his offer of aid came during a meeting of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources held in the State Capitol, Friday when he learned of the difficulty some shrimpers were having in completing these forms.

Interested persons may go to any of the following designated wildlife commission offices or locations: Main Office, 400 Royal St., New Orleans; 1213 N. Lakeshore Drive, Lake Charles; 115½ W. Pershing, New Iberia; at the end of Texas-Gulf Rd., Bourg; and at Town Hall, Grand Isle. Angelle said that the commission will be willing to make this service available to shrimp fishermen in the Buras and Cameron areas, but had not designated locations at those two places. He said the commission was willing to do so if enough interest is indicated.

Some folks were catching bass with live shrimp up Jourdan River the other day. This time of the year bass go for underwater baits naturally live shrimp are the proper bait.

To fish them properly use a perch pole with a cork, fishing about three to four feet deep. The old fly rod can also be used with a black gnat and spinner. Or better still they can be caught by trolling with a Repala bait or a bait made with a No. 3 spinner, a treble hook and yellow skirt. Troll about 60 feet behind the boat. The leeward side of the bank is preferable.

According to word Black Bayou, Mills Bayou and other bayous in the Middle River area will be barricaded next week and remain so until the duck and geese seasons are over. One can still fish in the main bayous proper. Mighty good fishing anywhere in these streams.

Regarding hunting, squirrels and rabbits, haven't heard too much about it. Killing both these animals is better after the first frost. Real hunters know this. Cooler weather makes for catching speckles also.

Catching hard crabs is no problem at this time. They are being caught at Bayou Caddy, down Cedar Point way off the seawall, in crab nets and traps. They are both big crabs and gumbo size. For getting them in shallow lakes, full of grass, a dip net can be used effectively, one preferable with a long handle. No bait needed. The crabs swim around through and over the grass. A dip net is a handy gadget.

When making a landing net use a course twine. The hook on baits won't tangle up so much.

When fishing, especially in aluminum boats, try to eliminate vibration as much as possible, such as dropping oars, anchors, etc. on bottom of boat. Vibration scares fish, sounds such as talking, shouting, don't.

Al Mercier and his son went fishing at Half Moon and caught nine reds, one speckle, one flounder and one channel mullet. Al is an ardent fisherman and loves to catch them.

Poss Tanguish is catching some beautiful shrimp now. He knows where they are and gets his share each time out. Also says he catches crabs occasionally. Sold but in short order Saturday.

Wop Glover with Ray Garner made a nice catch of bass Saturday afternoon. Both are expert fisherman. Said the bass were hitting at their best. Of course the falling tide was a main factor.

Speckles are moving up Jourdan River. Some pan size were caught over the weekend. Think a little cold weather is needed.

Was nice meeting Ralph Hall, a disabled veteran from 103 Sherard Cr., Columbus, Miss. He prefers bass fishing but caught some small speckles up Jourdan River plus some sheepshead, croakers and crabs on a hook and line. Ralph owns some property at Gautier, Miss. He loves camping and fishing of any kind as long as he can catch them.

SPORTSMAN OF THE WEEK - Ms. Ruby Blaize shows off a nice speckled trout and a red fish that were hooked at the American Legion Pier off Washington Street in Bay St. Louis. Both fish measured over 15 inches in length. The lady angler also brought in a 30 pound drum fish during the same morning's catch.

Rea is new PRC coach

POPLARVILLE — Pearl River Junior College's new head basketball coach for the 1974-75 season will be Charles Rea.

Rea, from Hueytown High School in Mobile, Alabama, will replace William E. Holmes who resigned to take a coaching job at McNeese State University, Louisiana.

Coach Rea was born in Philadelphia, Miss. and reared in Meridian, Miss. He is married to the former Sylvia Goodwin, also of Meridian. They have one daughter, Tammy Lyn, age five.

Since graduation from the University of Southern Mississippi in 1960, Coach Rea has established winning records at Calhoun, Miss. (22-6); Grovehill High School, Mobile, Alabama, (20-6) and (22-9); John Carroll High School, Birmingham, Alabama, (23-22); Tarrant High School, Birmingham, Alabama, (11-9); and finally, Hueytown High School, (13-11).

According to Coach Rea, PRC's basketball strategy will involve speed, cohesion, and team effort to off-set the lack of a "big man" to play pivot.

While Coach Rea hesitates to mention any particular player before workouts begin, he feels that he has signed some outstanding local talent.

Furman-Lasalle open Sugar Bowl tournament

NEW ORLEANS—Southern Conference champion Furman will be matched with the LaSalle Explorers in the first game opening round of the 1974 Sugar Bowl basketball tournament at Municipal Auditorium Sunday December 29.

The second game will pit Southeastern Conference co-champion Alabama with Houston.

The pairings were announced by Elliott Lauderman, chairman of the Basketball Committee of the New Orleans Mid-Winter Sports Association.

Consolation and finals games will be played on Monday, December 30. Tipoff both nights is at 7 p.m.

First night losers will play in the first game on Monday, while first night winners will play in the second game for the Sugar Bowl cage championship.

LaSalle, Middle Atlantic Conference runnerup last season, and Furman are making their first visits to New Orleans. Houston will be making its fifth trip while Alabama will mark its third appearance in the Sugar Bowl tournament.

The Alabama Crimson Tide, under C. M. Newton, is being picked as the team to beat in the 1974-75 SEC cage race. Newton, who will be in his sixth season as boss of the Tide cagers, has made steady progress with such won-loss records at Alabama as 4-20, 8-18, 10-16, 18-8, 22-8 and 22-4, for an overall 84-74 record.

Newton returns such standouts as two-time All-SEC

6-5 guard Charles Cleveland, 6-10 sophomore center Leon Douglas, and sophomore forwards Charles Russell and T. R. Dunn.

Under Guy Lewis, the Houston Cougars for the 15th consecutive season posted a winning season last year with a 17-9 mark, the 11th straight time they have won 16 or more games in a season.

Five of the seven top scorers of last year, including Louis Dunbar, a 6-9 guard-forward from Minden, Louisiana, and a third-team All-America pick, return to the 1974-75 Cougar team. Dunbar scored 21.7 points per game and was the team's leading scorer with 563 points last year.

Otis Birdsong (6-3), 14.3; Maurice Presley (6-10), 14.2; David Marrs (6-8), 9.3; and Ed Riska (6-2), 3.6, are coming back, also. Presley was the Cougars' leading rebounder last season with a 10.4 mark on 270 caroms. Dunbar was third with 221 and an 8.5 norm.

Eight lettermen and four starters are coming back with LaSalle, which had an 18-10 mark last season. 6-5 Bill Taylor, 6-10 Joe Bryant, and 6-0 Charley Wise, the three top scorers of last season, will lead the Philadelphia team this season. Taylor's 19.7 points per game mark was highest in both the Middle Atlantic and the University-East Conferences.

Taylor, who will be a senior forward, scored 551 points and had 197 rebounds during the past year. Bryant, a junior this year, was second in scoring with 18.7 average and 488, and was the leading rebounder with 282 grabs and a 10.8 average. Wise scored 335 points for an 11.9 average.

Furman University, which won the 1973-74 Southern Conference championship and tournament, will return four starters from last season's team which posted a 22-9 overall record. The Paladins advanced to the NCAA East Regionals where they disposed of South Carolina 75-67 in the opening round, but lost to Pittsburgh 81-78 in the semi-finals.

Coach Joe Williams, who has fielded winning teams his last seven consecutive seasons and has an overall 74-41 mark at Furman, will be counting on 6-9 musclemen Clyde Mayes, 7-1 Pessor "Moose" Leonard, Baron Hill, and sophomores-to-be Bruce Grimm and Craig Lynch to carry the Paladins to another winning season in 1974-75.

Mayes was the team's leading scorer (17.9 points) and rebounder (13.4) and hit for a sizzling 57.4 percent of his field goal attempts.

Mail order ticket requests for the Sugar Bowl basketball tournament are now being accepted at the Sugar Bowl office, Room 510, 611 Gravier St., New Orleans, Louisiana 70130. Series tickets (for both nights) are $8.00 for adults and $4.00 for youths. All seats are reserved.

Tickets for the football classic are priced at $9.00 each, with all seats reserved.
